"Rigoletto," Verdi's wonderful opera, sung by practically an entirely new cast at Thursday's matinee, repeated the remarkable success of the "Rigoletto" sung here in the season of 1912, when the quartet met with such tremendous applause that the stars were compelled to respond to an encore.

"Rigoletto" was, perhaps, the most finished piece of work on the part of the entire company that the Metropolitan company has done in Atlanta this season.

From the moment that Amato, who sang the title role, appeared on the stage, the audience was held breathless.

Stars Are Applauded.

When the moment arrived for the great quartet, with Amato, Hempel, Botta and Braslau, singing, the attention of the audience was keen to a point of tense excitement. When the last great strain of the quartet had died there was a moment's breathless silence, and then the applause that burst forth was not merely an expression of appreciation, but was a greater tribute than that. It was an expression of genuine emotion which stirred the hearers. The clapping of hands surged to a tremendous crescendo, which broke into cheers and the waving of handkerchiefs.

For many moments the applause continued while the stars bowed and waved their appreciation. But thanks was not what the audience was looking for. They wanted to hear more, and at length Polacco tapped with his baton on his music stand and the notes of the orchestra quieted the outburst of enthusiasm.

An introductory bar from the orchestra floated out over the audience, and once more the stars sang the great quartet.

The scene was an exact duplication of the great ovation which greeted the quartet three years ago when the stars were Caruso, Gluck, Gilly and Wickham.

It was the first time that Pasquale Amato, who appeared in the title role of "Rigoletto," has sung here since his son. Early in the first act, when he made his first appearance as the fate-ridden hunchback, he was greeted with an ovation of welcome.

Amato Wins Audience.

His singing and acting throughout the opera completely enthralled his audience.

Lucca Botta, who was heard for the first time here as the duke Thursday afternoon, has a splendid voice and a good stage bearing, which marked him for a favorite here.

Freida Hempel and Sophie Braslau added to their laurels of the week.

The other stars did splendid work.

Any one of the operas which has been presented here this season inspires the desire to write a story about the richness, splendor and picturesqueness of the stage settings. Surely no opera company in the world could do such work with such finished stage furnishings and gorgeous costumes as the Metropolitan. The scenic effects of the act of any opera this week has been less than a work of art in itself. The colorings, lightings are overwhelming in their warm brilliancy and sudden contrasts of somber shadows. They are as idealistic as a painting and yet so detail is forgotten in the reproduction realism. If you know a Maxfield Parrish painting when you see it, you know what the richness in color and detail of a Metropolitan stage setting is.

Big Audience Present.

"Rigoletto" was greeted with another splendid audience Thursday.

In fact, the falling off in attendance in opera this year is negligible. There were 5,800 paid admissions to "Carmen" Wednesday night. The expenses for the season will run between $67,000 and $70,000, and all indications are that a call upon the guarantors to help meet this figure will not be necessary.

LUCREZIA BORI, LUCA BOTTA AND PASQUALE AMATO.

PREVENTION OF WAR DISCUSSED BY WOMEN

The Hague, April 29.—(Via London.) The entire session today of the International Congress of Women was devoted to the discussion and adoption of two resolutions. The first provided for democratic control in framing the foreign policies of nations. As amended and adopted, this resolution recommended nullification of all secret treaties and the participation in the adoption of future treaties by the people, at least through legislative branches of governments.

The second resolution opposed transfer of territory from one nation to another without the consent of the inhabitants. As amended and adopted, the resolution recommended recognition of the rights of people to self-government and demanded a democratic form of government for every nation.

Pamphlets dealing with conditions in Poland were distributed among the delegates. That aroused some feeling by women who characterized it as an anti-Russian propaganda emanating from German sources.

A light vote is expected because a large number of voters have been stricken from the eligibility list because of the non-payment of taxes. Voting, however, in the county precincts is expected to be heavier than usual, owing to the widespread interest being taken in the tri-cornered race.

The hours for city polls will be from 6 a. m. to 6:30 p. m., and in the country precincts from 7 until 3 o'clock.

MERGER CONSIDERED BY THE METHODISTS

Des Moines, Iowa, April 29.—The board of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, in session here today, considered the proposed organic union of the Methodist Episcopal church, the Methodist Episcopal church, of the south, and the Protestant Methodist church.

A committee, which includes Bishops Cranston, Bashford, Hughes and Hamilton, was elected to consider plans for the unification of these three church organizations. Bishop Earl Cranston, of Washington, D. C., leader of the church merger movement, made an extensive statement. The afternoon session, with the exception of the half hour for prayer for the peace of Europe, was spent in consideration of the subject.

TWO ARTILERYMEN HURT AT AUDITORIUM

Both Are Badly Burned as Result of Explosion in the Arsenal.

A terrific explosion last night in the arsenal of the Atlanta artillery in the basement of the Auditorium-Armory building injured two artillerymen, Corporal John Edward, who lives on South Pryor street, and Private Charley Kiker, of 140 Greenwich avenue.

Plastering in adjoining rooms to the arsenal fell, and the flooring on the first floor of the building, just above the explosion, was shaken loose. This is just inside the interior of the entrance to the building from Courtland street.

The explosion was the result of the act on the part of one of the injured artillerymen, both of whom are now at Grady hospital suffering from severe powder burns about the head and face.

One of them threw a lighted cigarette onto a handful of saluting powder, which had leaked on the floor from the ammunition limber. The small explosion of this powder ignited the larger amount in the limber box, which had leaked, supposedly, from saluting shells when they were joggled over the streets in the Memorial day parade. The limber box was blown open.

Colonel Orville H. Hall, of the Fifth regiment, was notified of the accident, and hurried to the armory to probe the causes of the explosion. Lieutenant B. M. Bailey, U. S. A., had assembled a lecture class of young artillerymen for the evening.

Lieutenant Bailey and Sergeant Fay Wilson, a well-known clothier, were the first to reach the side of the injured artillerymen.

Yellow Cards Tell About the Wedding Of Georgia Couple

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Neisler Find Plans for a Quiet Honeymoon Spoiled by Amateur Press Agent's Work.

Bright yellow circulars scattered about the Ansley hotel yesterday proclaimed the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Neisler, who stole out of Cordele to spend a quiet honeymoon in Atlanta and were met in the hotel by "advance billing" as profuse as any theatrical press agent ever invented.

Mr. Neisler, who is president of the Neisler Fruit and Land company, of Reynolds, Ga., was married in Cordele Wednesday morning. The bride and groom planned to spend their honeymoon by visiting Atlanta, Washington and New York. The plans would have materialized had there not been a press agent on the job in the person of the groom's brother, C. H. Neisler, president of the Cordele Banking company.

When the bridal couple drove up in a taxicab and strode into the crowded lobby they were amazed to be greeted with the yellow sheets circulated throughout the place. Groups stood about reading them, and, as the groom went over to register he faced a glaringly yellow "dodger" bearing the announcement in heavy black type:

"Just Married—Cordele, Ga. We think it mighty fine now, but you might ask us about it after we get back from Atlanta, Washington and New York. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Neisler. P. S.—Strangers will please not be bashful, but get acquainted with the couple as quickly as possible. Any attention shown them on their wedding trip will be appreciated.

(Signed) "THEIR FRIENDS."

William Guard, press representative of the Metropolitan Opera company, appreciating the efforts of the bridal couple's press agent, proceeded to make them acquainted with a number of opera's most noted performers.

Mr. and Mrs. Neisler originally planned to spend more time at grand opera, but, finding that they outshone the opera in attention, they hastily continued their trip to Washington on a Pullman car literally plastered with "honeymoon billing."

Mother and Father Of Leo Frank Here To Attend Hearing

"We Have Never Been Shaken in Our Belief in His Innocence," Says M. Frank. "Eventual Exoneration Certain."

"We believe that our boy will be eventually exonerated. He will not have to—unless Georgia hangs an innocent man. We have never been shaken in our belief in his innocence. Our faith has grown stronger day by day, and now, at the crisis, we feel renewed hope."

These are the words of M. Frank, of Brooklyn, the aged father of Leo Frank, who arrived in Atlanta early Thursday morning accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Rea Frank. They are stopping at the residence of Carl Wolfsheimer, at 387 Washington street.

"You can say that not only have we firm hope, but Leo has not lost hope. He is confident that he will be spared from death, and it is a confidence born of innocence.

"It will be a glad, glorious day when the boy steps out of prison into the sunshine of freedom. It fills our hearts and his friends' hearts and his heart. If we did not have faith in his innocence we would be fearful, but we have supreme faith."

This is the fourth time the mother has traveled from Brooklyn to Atlanta to visit her son in prison. She attended practically every session of the long and tedious trial year before last. The father was not present on account of his years.

They both stated last night that they would remain in Atlanta indefinitely, they are seeking to aid attorneys for their son in his last fight before the prison commission and governor. Both father and mother sought a conference with counsel Thursday afternoon, but were unable to get in touch with any of the group of attorneys.

They have spent most of their time at the Tower, where they talked with Frank in his cell. Frank, during their visit to the Tower, buoyed their spirits remarkably. His disposition was cheerful, and he assured them constantly that the last resort to which he had been forced to appeal would rescue him from the fate meted out by the courts.

Harris To Decide.

It is the opinion of members of the prison commission that the case of Leo Frank will not be reached before June and probably not until some time in July.

Frank has petitioned for a commutation of his death sentence to life imprisonment.

If, as is now believed, Frank's petition will not be heard earlier than June, the recommendation of the prison commission will not reach the governor's office until Governor Slaton has retired and Judge Harris has been sworn in as governor.

ON WATER WAGON, MAYOR OF CHICAGO TELLS METHODISTS

Chicago, April 29.—Chicago's new mayor, William Hale Thompson, was the center of a scene unusual in meetings of churchmen when he visited the banquet of the conference of church claimants here tonight. It came about when he picked up a glass of water.

"Do we understand that the new mayor is on the water wagon?" shouted Dr. W. W. Van Orsdel, of the North Montana conference.

"You bet," replied the mayor, whereat the guests, gathered from all over the country in the interests of the campaign of the Methodist church to raise a pension fund of $10,000,000, arose and gave the chautauqua salute, cheering and waving their napkins.

The banquet brought to a close a three-day convention in the interest of the pension fund, $1,100,000 of which already had been raised, it was announced.

ALLIES ARE FOUGHT IN WISCONSIN COURT

Move to Stop Allis-Chalmers Company From Making Shrapnel Shells for Germany's Foes.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 29.—A complaint was filed today under the so-called "discovery" statute of Wisconsin to obtain information to determine whether the Allis-Chalmers company, Otto Falk, its president, and others have entered into a conspiracy with the Bethlehem Steel company and others to manufacture and ship shrapnel shells to European belligerents, contrary to the Wisconsin law.

The action, service in which was secured tonight, calls for the appearance of Falk and the other defendants before the circuit court commissioner in Milwaukee, May 5, for preliminary action before pleading as provided by the discovery statute proceedings. Falk is cited to bring with him all letters, contracts, correspondence and agreements between the Allis-Chalmers company and the Bethlehem Steel company.

Allegations in the Complaint.

The complaint was filed by Samuel Pearson, who declares he is a citizen of the United States and that he has valuable property interests located within the boundaries of the German empire; that he is owner of securities issued by the German government.

On information and belief, Pearson avers that the defendants, prior to the war, were engaged in the manufacture of peaceful instruments of art and industry and that the manufacture of shrapnel was engaged in only after the war started.

The complaint sets forth that it is his belief that the defendants have entered into an unlawful conspiracy with the Bethlehem Steel company and others and that such a conspiracy indicated is a criminal offense under the laws of Wisconsin.

The examination of the defendants under the discovery statute is for the purpose of ascertaining, among other things, the names of each person or corporation with whom the defendants may have contracted for the manufacture of shrapnel shells or similar munitions; the intent and nature of such contracts and the names of any consignees to whom such munitions may have been shipped.

Intent of War to Crush Germany.

Upon the information gained in the examination it is said an injunction suit will be based to prevent the defendants from continuing in any such conspiracy as is alleged.

The complaint states that one type of ammunition indispensable to the belligerents is the shrapnel shell, designed for the destruction of human life and property, and that the intent of the war being conducted against the German empire is so as to cripple the empire as to compel the submission of Germany to the future disposition of its national domain or to the surrender of its sovereign life, as the allies may dispose, if victorious.

Mention of President Wilson's neutrality proclamation is made and certain federal statutes are cited, violations of which, it is contended, constitute breaches of neutrality and submit the offender to criminal prosecution for "high crimes and misdemeanors."

According to the complaint the duration of the war would be materially shortened and the operations resulting in wholesale bloodshed and taking of life and vast destruction of property would be curtailed if arms and ammunition were withheld by the United States from either of the belligerents.

COTTON ON THE GEORGIA GOES TO PRIZE COURT

London, April 29.—The Danish steamship Louisiana, New York for Copenhagen, detained at Kirkwall on April 16, was transfered on April 26 to Hull, where foodstuffs in her cargo will be passed on by a prize court.

Cotton on the Swedish steamer Georgia, which left Savannah March 23 for Gothenburg, has been thrown into the prize court at Sharpness.

Zeppelin Raiding Towns in England

Ipswich Is Bombarded and Several Buildings Set on Fire — The Aircraft Also Dropped Explosives on Other Towns—Nobody Injured So Far as Known.

London, April 30.—(2:57 a. m.)—The Daily News says that a German aircraft appeared over Ipswich shortly after midnight and dropped a number of bombs, setting several buildings afire.

Ipswich is in Suffolk county, and is a town of considerable commerical importance. It has a population of 75,000.

A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Ipswich says that five houses there were virtually destroyed by airship bombs and three others were badly and two slighfly damaged.

The dispatch adds that as far as known there were no casualties in Ipswich.

A Central News dispatch says that a Zeppelin was seen during the night at Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk county, where it dropped bombs and set several buildings on fire.

NO ONE INJURED AS FAR AS IS KNOWN.

Ipswich, England, April 30.—(3:22 a. m.)—A hostile aircraft—whether a Zeppelin or an aeroplane is not known—raided Ipswich early this morning. Several bombs were dropped. An incendiary bomb struck a house, pierced the roof and fell into the bedroom of a little girl. The child was uninjured.

The flames spread to two adjoining houses, which were almost destroyed.

The aircraft then passed on to Whitton, where it also dropped explosives. So far as known nobody was injured.

DIAMOND RINGS STOLEN FROM SEABROOK HOME

Jewelry Valued at $1,000 Taken While Mrs. Seabrook Attends Opera.

While Mrs. William Seabrook was attending the grand opera matinee yesterday afternoon a clever thief took advantage of her absence from her apartments in the Virginian, 1010 Peachtree, and, after "jimmying" the door, ransacked her jewelry box, securing $1,000 worth of diamond rings.

Mrs. Seabrook, who is the wife of William Seabrook, of Lewis-Seabrook company, advertisers, returning to her home about 5:45 o'clock, discovered the robbery. She called the city detective department immediately, and was told that they would send a detective to investigate the robbery as soon as one came into headquarters.

Mr. Seabrook, who was notified by his wife of the robbery, again called at 6:45 o'clock, and received the same reply to his request for a detective to investigate the robbery.

At 7:30 o'clock, according to Mr. Seabrook, City Detective B. E. Moon arrived at his home. Twenty minutes later Police Chief James L. Beavers visited the Seabrook apartments and aided in the investigation. A list and description of the stolen jewelry were obtained by the officers.

A neatly-dressed white man, about 21 years old, rang the door bell of an adjoining apartment, and when the negro servant answered his ring, he asked if the lady of the house was at home. He said he wanted to collect a bill.

The negro servant said it was a strange-looking white man, and is believed to be the one who "jimmied" the door of Mr. Seabrook's apartment.

In the list of stolen jewelry were two large solitaire diamond rings and a pearl-ring surrounded by diamonds. These three rings were valued at $1,000 by Mr Seabrook.

TWO HOMES ROBBED.

Burglars Thursday entered the apartment of Mrs. D. S. Mays, at 12 East Ellis, and Mrs. A. M. Perkerson, at 34 East avenue, thoroughly ransacking both places.

Mrs. Mays, no neighbors state, has been out of town for several weeks and it was impossible to ascertain what she had lost. Mrs. Perkerson stated that she had been in town and when she came home found her apartment entered and every drawer and corner thoroughly searched. She stated that the burglars were evidently intending to take nothing but money, as she did not miss anything but a small amount of money she had left in her room.

Other burglaries reported to the police were the loss of a large amount of clothing from the home of W. H. Jordan, at 283 Central avenue, and the robbing of the gas meter at 110 West Harris street. A call came to the police station late Thursday evening that a man was in the house at 52 Kelly street, occupied by J. Newton Shepard. The occupants came in the house and found a negro man in the dining room. He was alarmed at their approach and escaped. He did not succeed in taking anything. The officers could find no trace of him.

Germans Are Arrested For Celebrating Victory Over Canadian Troops

Vancouver, B. C., April 29.—Four prominent German residents of Vancouver were arrested today, charged with taking part, last Sunday night, with a number of other Germans, in the celebration of the German victory over Canadian trops at Ypres. The men detained are Paul Koop, capitalist; Baron von Luttowitz, Dr. Otto Grunert and Frederick Stritzel.

A long list of Vancouver men killed and wounded reached here Sunday night, and news of the celebration caused popular indignation.

The Germans declare they merely were having a house-warming.

SPORADIC ATTACKS MARK THE FIGHTING ON WESTERN FRONT

Comparative Quiet Follows the Bloody Struggle in Which the Allies Checked German Drive for Channel Ports.

FIGHTING VERY HEAVY IN THE CARPATHIANS

The Russians Have Resumed Their Efforts to Force Uzsok Pass and Make Possible the Invasion of Hungary.

London, April 29.—Since the definite checking of the latest German attempt to break through the allied lines in Flanders and open the way to the channel ports of France, sporadic attacks characterize the campaign in Belgium and France, and on the whole, the troops have remained comparatively quiet in the past twenty-four hours. The Germans have been repulsed at two points—by the Belgians north of Ypres, and by the French at Les Eparges.

The British and French continue their efforts in the Ypres sector, but the Germans claim to have repelled these assaults. There are also reports that the British have begun an offensive in the neighborhood of Armentieres.

The Germans apparently do not contemplate a movement in force on the western front at this time, as they reopened today the Belgian-Dutch frontier, always closed when the Germans are on the move.

Heavy fighting continues in the Carpathians for Uzsok pass and in the direction of Stry, where the Austrians are threatening the Russian communications. Berlin reports that the Austrians again have invaded Bessarabia, but there is no confirmation of this in the Austrian official statement received tonight.

The Russians again have taken the offensive against the Turkish invaders of Persia and have driven them from the border town of Kotur.

GERMAN ATTACKS EASILY CHECKED.

Paris, April 29.—The following official communication was issued by the war office tonight:

"The day has been calm. During the night of April 28-29 two German attacks, one against the Belgian troops to the north of Ypres and the other at Les Eparges—were easily repulsed.

The communication issued in the afternoon follows:

"In Belgium we have continued to progress, in conjunction with the Belgian troops, in a northerly direction. On the right bank of the Yser canal we took 150 prisoners as well as two machine guns.

"There is nothing new on the heights of the Meuse nor in the Vosges.

"The enemy has bombarded by means of flying machines and using incendiary shells the open town of Epernay, occupied exclusively at the time by hospital detachments.

"Definite information which has come to hand sets forth that the Zeppelin airship which eight days ago threw bombs on Dunkirk was seriously damaged by our artillery. Finding it impossible to navigate further, the machine was wrecked in the trees between Bruges and Ghent."

ALLIES FAIL, GERMANS CLAIM.

"Berlin, April 29.—(Via London.)—The German war office today made public the following official communication:

"Our positions on the west bank of the canal north of Ypres and on the Yperlee brook, near Steenstraate, were attacked yesterday afternoon without interruption, but without success.

"East of the canal an attack by French, Algerian and British troops failed yesterday evening with heavy losses to the enemy. The number of guns captured north of Ypres has been brought up to sixty-three.

"The enemy unsuccessfully exploded mines on the La Bassee-Bethune railway north of Les Mesnil in Champagne. At Les Mesnil, French night attacks against positions which we had taken were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy. French soldiers taken prisoners by us here were in a lamentable condition. They trembled in fear, as their officers had told them they would be killed if captured by the Germans.

"On the heights of the Meuse, south of Verdun, we carried our positions forward some 100 metres and entrenched them.

"South of the Vosges the situation is unaltered.

"To the south of Kalwarya (Russian Poland) we took possession of the village of Wovale and the hills south of it. Near Dachovo, south of Sochaczew, we captured a Russian point of support."

RUSSIANS GAIN VANTAGE POINT.

Petrograd, April 29.—(Via London.) The Russian occupation of Loubnia, a small village northwest of Uzsok pass, is regarded here as a decided achievement in the Carpathian campaign. It seriously endangers the important railroad line between the town of Uzsok and Berezna, which made possible extended Austrian operations that retarded the Russian advance toward Uzsok pass.

The railroad running just to the rear of the Austrian center and paralleling the line of the most important summits of the Beskids has enabled the Austrians to transfer troops almost instantly to any point on this part of the Carpathian front.

During the past week as the Russian advance developed toward Uzsok pass, the Austrians exerted their entire strength to protect this railroad.

Furious Austrian efforts to retake Loubnia culminated April 26 and 27 in a hand-to-hand encounter, after which the attackers retired.

The authorities report that in this region, as well as at Lupkow and Stry, the Austrian troops were not assisted by the Germans, who are said to be concentrating at Cracow, western Galicia.

Tonight's official war office communication says:

"To the north of the Niemen the enemy advance guard, having passed Rosany, approached the line of the River Dubissa yesterday morning. On the whole front our contact with the enemy the artillery fire during the past few days has become more intense and collisions between reconnoitring detachments more frequent.

"West of the Niemen and north of the Narew the Germans on the 27th and 28th delivered isolated attacks at many places, but none of a very decisive character.

"In the regions of Kalwarya and to the north of Suwalki we checked an enemy offensive without any particular effort.

"Between the Pissa and Skwa rivers, during an attack in the sector of Krucha-Serefine, enemy forces advancing in the marshy land came under the cross-fire of our machine guns and were driven back in disorder with heavy losses. In the region of the village of Tartak the enemy unsuccessfully attempted to carry our trenches by a sudden attack. His attempts to make progress north of Prassanysz and east of Racions and Drobine were equally futile. Near Starourzeba the Germans, who opened an offensive, were immediately engaged in desperate battle.

"In the Carpathians, near the Uzsok pass, the enemy during the night of April 27 and 28 unsuccessfully attacked a hill northeast of Lubnia. In the direction of Stry, the enemy delivered repeated desperate attacks in the region of Golonciske, but all were successfully repulsed with the bayonet."

BLIND CORONER LEADS PARADE ON HORSEBACK

Paul Donehoo, the blind coroner, yesterday repeated his parade of the down town thoroughfares. Seated on a white horse, and unaided by the guidance of any one the blind coroner rode for two hours at the head of a procession followed by a band that played everything from "Dixie" to "Tipperary."

Mr. Donehoo delivered his first address to the crowds that were waiting at The Constitution as he passed. The second talk was delivered at Five Points.

MEMPHIS JITNEY MEN SEEK AN INJUNCTION

Memphis, Tenn., April 29.—A petition was filed in federal court here late today by E. F. Nolen and nine other jitney owners to enjoin the city and county officials from enforcing the state law requiring jitneys to provide bonds for [illegible].

This step was taken after a similar petition filed in the chancery court was dismissed today on the ground the chancellors had no jurisdiction.

In their petition to the federal court the jitney men declare the state law is in opposition to the federal constitution. No date was set for the hearing in the federal court.

DRIVE CONTINUES AT DARDANELLES

But How Far Allied Operations Have Progressed Is Not Stated—Turkish Defeat Reported by Athens.

London, April 29.—The interest of the British public has turned to the Dardanelles, where French and British forces, with the co-operation of the fleet, are attempting to force the straits and open the way to Constantinople.

How far these operations have progressed only those on the spot and the highest authorities at home know. The British have landed at three points on the Gallipoli peninsula and have thrown a line across the outer point of the peninsula. Other British troops are threatening the Bulair line of forts and the French are looking after the Turks on the Asiatic side of the straits.

The Turks report that all the landing parties have been repulsed, but British reports, which are brief, content themselves with the statement that progress is being made and ignore entirely the Turkish claims to victories.

It is charged that all official statements from Constantinople and Berlin bearing on the Dardanelles situation are not only being censored, but framed with the purpose of exerting a favorable influence on Italy and other wavering neutrals.

ALLIES WIN IN FIERCE FIGHT.

London, April 29.—An Athens Exchange telegraph dispatch says fierce fighting Wednesday on the shores of Suvla bay, on the western side of the Gallipoli peninsula, 18 miles north of the southern extremity, resulted in the success of the allies.

"The losses of the Turks were serious. One entire battalion was captured by the allies."

"The British force landed on the European coast of the Dardanelles has been entrusted solely with the mission of occupying the Gallipoli peninsula, which is defended by 60,000 Turks," says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch.

"The French force has been landed entirely on the Asiatic coast with the object of advancing along the littoral to keep pace with the progress made by the British on the opposite coast.

"The bombardment of the straits was resumed Tuesday and lasted twelve hours. It was directed particularly at the Killid Bahr forts."

VICTORY CLAIMED BY THE TURKS.

Constantinople, Tuesday, April 27.—(Via Amsterdam and London, April 29.)—An official announcement issued here says:

"Sighi Dere, to the west of Seddul Bahr, has been cleared of the enemy.

"The enemy, who landed near Kaba Tepeh, endeavored to maintain their positions under cover of their ships, but early in the morning our troops stormed these positions and forced the enemy back along the whole front, inflicting severe losses on them. Part of the enemy fled in the direction of the sea and taking to their boats disappeared. Those unable to escape raised the white flag and surrendered in masses.

"A transport of the enemy was sunk off Avi Burun (on the west coast of the peninsula of Gallipoli).

"Later reports declare that hostile forces estimated at four brigades have been driven into the sea on the coast of Kaba Tepeh."

The herring catch of England last year exceeded by far that of any previous season.

BRITAIN TO HEAP TAXES ON LIQUOR

Heavy Increases Proposed to Commons on Spirits, Wines and Beer—Prohibition Only as a Last Resort.

London, April 29.—Proposals introduced in the house of commons today by David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, to double the duty on spirits, quadruple the duties on wines and to institute an increase by graduated tax on beer—to encourage the use of lighter beers—were strongly opposed and it is generally believed that new taxes will have to be moderated before parliament will accept them.

The O'Brienites, as a protest against an additional taxation on Irish whiskies and beers, brought about the first division in the house since the outbreak of the war, by voting against the provisional resolutions bringing the taxes into force at once, to prevent withdrawals from bonds while parliament is dealing with them there. The resolution relating to spirits was passed by a vote of 89 to 5, the minority being composed of O'Brienites.

The nationalists also protested against the measure, but did not vote. The unionists, who withheld criticism until all the facts could be placed before them, also abstained from voting.

Laborites to Reply.

The laborites promised to reply to the chancellor's charges that a minority of the workmen, lured away by drink, were putting their feet into the work of producing war material.

The extra taxes will be included in the budget which Chancellor Lloyd-George will introduce in the house of commons Tuesday, and the bill, which is an amendment to the defense of the act, will be postponed for the second reading at a later date, when the debate on it will take place. Before that time, the chancellor has promised to place in the hands of the members a series of reports of independent investigators on whose findings the government decided to take the action it has.

Besides the Irish opposition to the spirit duties, many members oppose the new wine taxes on the ground that they strike at France, Australia and South Africa. The proposed appointment of a board of control and the proposal to take over for canteen purposes the saloons in the munitions of war areas and to compensate all interests are generally approved by the members.

Troubles Difficult, Says Chancellor.

The chancellor in his opening sentence indicated that difficulties had been met with, as he said:

"After weeks of trying to find a solution of the question I am prepared to take a pledge never to politically touch drink again."

Mr. Lloyd-George dealt at length on the loss of time due to drink, showing that in some cases men were doing fewer hours than in ordinary peace time. He attributed this to the fact that the men were "earning more than they know what to do with."

In introducing his plan to amend the defense of the realm act, the chancellor said he was not proposing a solution of the temperance question, but only an act of discipline during the war.

Mr. Lloyd-George said the government had concluded it was not justified in instituting prohibition until it had tried everything else. It would be too serious an interference with the habits of the people.

The time lost by drinking, the chancellor said, was equivalent to the services of 150,000 men.

ANGLICAN CLERGY OPPOSE PROHIBITION.

London, April 29.—The clergy comprising the lower house of the convocation of Canterbury are willing to set the nation an example in the matter of temperance, but they are not willing to abstain entirely from alcohol. This was the sense of the meeting today of the lower house, which passed a resolution "inviting the clergy and laity of the Church of England to set an example of self-sacrifice" in the matter of alcoholic liquors.

Several members voted only after being assured that total abstinence was not expected of them. The dean of Canterbury said flatly he refused to swear off altogether. He had tried it before, he said, and found it a failure in that it impaired his health.

ITALY AND ALLIES REACH AGREEMENT

Rome, Italy, April 29.—(Via Paris.) From persons in close touch with the situation information was obtained today indicating that Italy has reached an understanding with Great Britain and France concerning the terms on which she will enter the war, if she eventually decides to do so. This information, unofficial, but gathered from close students of the pending negotiations, sets forth the terms of the agreement as follows:

"First. A provision for concerted military action. Italy will refrain from hostilities during the present stage of desultory trench warfare, which would enable Germany and Austria to concentrate a large part of their forces against her. She will time her blow contemporaneously with a general effort by all the opponents of the central empires now in the field.

"Second. An understanding concerning the territory to be awarded to Italy in the event of victory.

"Third. A provision that after the war an alliance shall be formed between Italy and the present triple entente, Great Britain, France and Russia."

It is intimated that at the outset Great Britain was not disposed to make terms with Italy, but that Italy firmly declined to consider joining the allies without first having reached a definite agreement with them concerning the nature and time of her co-operation, boundary readjustments after the war and permanent assistance from the allies.

Italy Aided by France.

Italy is said to have received powerful assistance from French diplomacy in reaching the desired understanding on these points.

Prince von Buelow still is striving to induce Austria to make concessions and prevent Italy from becoming one of the belligerents.

A member of the government on the other hand, when asked whether any agreement had been reached with the central empires, made the significant reply: "Nothing has been done and nothing will be done."

Deputy Barzilai, a native of Trieste, who has been elected to the chamber from Rome for the last twenty-five years, speaking of the patriotic event at Quarto Sant' Elena on May 5 when a monument will be unveiled in memory of Garibaldi's volunteers in the presence of the king and veterans of the war of independence, said: This event will be an official declaration of war against Austria. It will be a challenge of the Latin to the German world."

If Tire Bills are making you see RED

—then, see RED far enough to buy Empire Tires; then see that tire expense dwindle.

Most tires come to grief through disintegration. But for scientific reasons, disintegration is minimized in RED Rubber, and friction has slim chance to work on Empire RED Tires. RED Rubber must be new rubber, so the RED is a sure-thing sign of longest wear—on the road or standing still.

Empire Tires RED WEAR LONGEST

We studied tire faults and came across with this big idea of Empire RED Rubber Tires, which are tougher and livelier to start with, and which dodge blowouts and rim-cuts till extra-long service puts them on the shelf. All of which is mighty nourishing to your bank account.

This Empire RED Tiré has a tread that laughs at ruts and slippery streets. The elastic RED Rubber contracts on cuts and keeps them from spreading.

Past performances have proved that we can freely pledge Empire RED Tires to deliver more mileage than you expect. So this is our proposition: "If you feel you have another single mile coming from an Empire RED Tire when it finally peters out, just say the word, and we will satisfy you fully—and promptly." Can any agreement be fairer, squarer or broader? Then, write us or see your dealer.

PELLAGRA ORIGINATES FROM DIETARY CAUSE

Savannah, Ga., April 29.—Tests made in the treatment of pellagra patients at the Georgia State Sanitarium at Milledgeville, Ga., and at the state institution at Jackson, Miss., prove his contention that pellagra originates from a dietary cause have substantiated his claims, according to Dr. Joseph Goldberger, in charge of the pellagra investigation of the United States public health service, who arrived here tonight. Several months ago Dr. Goldberger announced that pellagra was caused by an improper diet and was neither contagious nor infectious. The tests at the Milledgeville and Jackson institutions followed with a view to proving the correctness of his theory.

Battle Raged by Moonlight, Britons Driving the Germans By Repeated Bayonet Charges

"Eye-Witness" Describes Checking of Recent German Rush—Initial Success of Germans Due Solely to the Use of Asphyxiating Gases—German Losses Very Heavy.

London, April 29.—The British official "eye witness" says the Germans had prepared to attack the allied line at Ypres on the 20th, but as the wind was not favorable "for the use of asphyxiating gases" they postponed it until the 22d.

The gas, the narrative says, was distributed along the German front line, in front of the French positions and the wind blew it directly on the French. The German plan, according to the "eye witness," was to make a sudden onslaught southwestward, which, if successful, would enable them to gain crossings of the canal south of Lizerne schoote and place them well behind the British line and in a position to threaten Ypres.

Waited For Vapors to Work.

"Allowing time for the vapors to take full effect on the troops facing them," says the "eye witness," "the Germans charged forward over the practically unresisting enemy in the immediate front and penetrating through the gap thus created, pressed on silently and swiftly to the south and west.

By their sudden irruption they overran and surprised a large proportion of the French troops billeted behind the front line in this area and brought some of the French guns as well as our own under a hot rifle fire at close range.

"Our flank being thus exposed, the troops were ordered to retire on St. Julien, with their left flank parallel to, but to the west of, the high road. The splendid resistance of those troops who saved the situation already has been mentioned by the commander-in-chief.

"Meanwhile apparently waiting until their infantry penetrated well behind the allies' line, the Germans opened a hot artillery fire upon various tactical points to the north of Ypres, the bombardment being carried out with the ordinary high explosive shells and shrapnel of various calibres and also with projectiles containing asphyxiating gas."

Fired Point Blank at Germans.

The "eye-witness" then tells how a battery of field artillery fired on the Germans at point blank range, checked their rush and did not lose a gun. The infantry meantime had withdrawn to St. Julien. Reinforcements finally were brought up to meet the Germans, who, by this time, were barely two miles from Ypres.

"These battalions," the narrative continues, "attacked the Germans with the bayonet, and then ensued a melee, in which our men more than held their own, both sides losing heavily.

"Other reinforcements were thrown in. The fighting was continued by moonlight, our troops driving the enemy by repeated bayonet charges, in the course of which our heavy guns were recaptured. By then the situation was somewhat restored in the area immediately north of Ypres. Farther to the west, however, the enemy had forced their way over the canal, occupying Steenstraete, and crossing at Het Sas, had established themselves at various points on the west bank.

Got to Germans With Bayonet.

"In the early morning of Friday we delivered a strong counter attack northward in co-operation with the French. In the wood about a half mile west of St. Julien our men got into the Germans with the bayonet and the latter suffered heavily. The losses also were severe on our side. About 11 a. m., not being able to progress farther, our troops dug themselves in.

"Broadly speaking, on the section of the front then occupied by us, the result of the operations had been to remove to some extent the wedge the Germans had driven into the allied line and immediate danger was over. During the afternoon our counter attack made further progress south of Pilkem, thus straightening the line still more."

The writer then tells how the Germans, bringing up strong reinforcements, "and again using gas" captured St. Julien and threw several brigades across the canal. The British made a strong counter attack Sunday and, while they gained some ground, it stopped in front of the village of St. Julien. The Germans, the narrative adds, made repeated attacks against the British near Broodseinde, backed by a tremendous artillery bombardment and gas, but they all were driven off, "with great slaughter to the enemy."

GREEN GASEOUS CLOUDS FROM GERMAN LINES.

Havre, France, April 28.—The Belgian official committee appointed to investigate reported violations of international law has reported in detail to Minister of Justice Wiart on the German use of asphyxiating gases. It is stated that gaseous clouds, extending 300 feet into the air, were carried away from the German lines by the wind. The clouds were green in color at the base, gradually shading to light yellow toward the top. Several kinds of gases appear to have been used, including chlorine, the nitrous vapors of sulphurous anhydride and others the nature of which has not yet been determined.

Four methods were employed, the report states, in generating these gases. The first was to light fires in the first line of trenches and permit the wind to blow the gas formed towards the allies' lines. Three other methods involved inclosing the gas in some kind of missile. These included cans, thrown either by hand or mine howitzers, cylinders of compressed gas, or shells containing compounds, which were transformed into gas when they exploded.

The effects of the fumes were felt at a distance of half a mile. They produced a kind of stupor which lasted for three or four hours. A German prisoner belonging to the sixteenth army corps, who was taken on April 15, said gas cylinders were placed along the entire front held by this corps. There was one every six feet and men specially instructed in their use were told to see that they produced the desired effect. These were provided with smoke helmets. Respirators were distributed to all the soldiers.

GERMANS DEFEND POISON BOMBS.

London, April 29.—The Prussian military organ, The Kreuz Zeitung, and The Frankfurter Zeitung and Cologne Gazette, copies of which have been received here, all admit that the Germans used asphyxiating bombs, which they justify.

The Frankfurter Zeitung contends that it is more humane to employ such bombs, which, it says, produce a quick and painless death, than to pour a hurricane of shells on a single spot to destroy and break to atoms everything living there.

The Kreuz Zeitung says the allies should learn the lesson that they are making a mistake "when by their behavior they cause us to resort to new technical weapons."

FORTUNE FOR DIVORCEE BY DEATH OF SOLDIER

Captain Douglas-Pennant Left $300,000 to Mrs. Phyllis Langhorne Brooks.

London, April 29.—Mrs. Phyllis Langhorne Brooks, of Greenwood, Va., inherits $300,000 from Captain the Hon. George Henry Douglas-Pennant, of the Grenadier Guards, who was killed in action in March. Captain Douglas-Pennant leaves Mrs. Brooks nearly all of his property in a will he made last October.

Captain Douglas-Penannt was a son of the second Baron Penrhyn and a half-brother to the present Lord Penrhyn.

Richmond, Va., April 29.—Mrs. Phyllis Langhorne Brooks is the daughter of Chiswell D. Langhorne, of Albemarle county, Virginia, and is a sister of Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson and Mrs. William Waldorf Astor, of London. She is known as one of the "famous five Langhorne beauties." She was granted a partial divorce on December 8, 1914, in the Albemarle court, from Reginald Brooks, a New York clubman, on the ground of desertion, and announced it January 16, 1915.

Mrs. Brooks sailed for London soon after her divorce with the announced intention of aiding her sister, Mrs. Astor, in nursing wounded English soldiers.

LIBEL SUIT FOR $25,000 BY MRS. UPTON SINCLAIR

Jackson, Miss., April 29.—Mrs. Mary Craig Sinclair, wife of Upton Sinclair, novelist and socialist leader, today filed suit against The News Publishing company, publishers of The Daily News, of this city, for $25,000 damages.

The suit grows out of a report published in The News that Mrs. Sinclair was arrested in New York, April 29, last year, in connection with a demonstration in front of a building in which John D. Rockefeller has offices. The demonstration was a protest against alleged conditions in Colorado during the strike of miners.

Mrs. Sinclair states in her petition that such report was false, and that it caused her unpleasant publicity in her native state, Mississippi.

Columbia, S. C., April 29.—Mrs. Mary Craig Sinclair today filed suit against The Record Publishing company, publishers of The Columbia Record, for $10,000 damages, alleging that a report of her arrest in New York, published in The Record one year ago, was false.

Mobile, Ala., April 29.—Suits against The Mobile Register and The Mobile Item were filed today by Mrs. Mary Craig Sinclair, for $25,000 each, who alleges that a report of her arrest published in these two newspapers a year ago is false. Mrs. Sinclair now resides in Harrison county, Mississippi.

Memphis, Tenn., April 29.—Suit was filed today by Mrs. Mary Craig Sinclair against The Commercial Publishing company, publishers of The Commercial Appeal, for $50,000. Mrs. Sinclair charges an account of her alleged arrest in New York published in the paper a year ago was false.

WILL BEGIN WORK SOON ON SOUTHEASTERN FAIR

A building committee and a premium committee for the Southeastern fair were appointed at a meeting of the directors Tuesday morning, after they had approved the recommendations of the landscape architect and the local architects regarding the establishment of the buildings on the site selected on the southwest portion of the grounds at Lakewood.

The committee appointed to superintend the excavation of the 11,000 yards of earth within the next few days is composed of Mell R. Wilkinson, Walter G. Cooper, Ivan E. Allen, V. H. Kriegshaber, W. T. Winn and I. N. Ragsdale. Mr. Allen is chairman.

In order that exhibitors may intelligently prepare their exhibits for this fall, a committee was appointed with instructions to prepare the lists as soon as possible. The committee is composed of V. H. Kriegshaber, chairman; Dr. E. H. Stockbridge, George F. Hunnicutt and L. A. Niven.

Praise Instead of Blame for State Sanitarium From Special Committee.

Milledgeville, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—Charges against the Georgia State Sanitarium by Jeff S. Mills, a former patient, are declared to be without foundation in a report made public today by a special investigating committee which held hearings here yesterday.

The committee takes up in detail each charge made by Mr. Mills and states:

"We have been unable to sustantiate any of the charges made by Mr. Mills as to mistreatment while in the sanitarium and have been unable to substantiate the charges made by Mr. Mills as to mistreatment of other inmates mentioned by him, except as to an attendant by the name of Mr. Massengale, who, it appears, was inefficient and rude to a patient and not adapted to the service and was discharged."

In arriving at its conclusions the committee states it "made a careful and thorough investigation of each step after the arrival of Mr. Mills to the state sanitarium, examined all the witnesses, including physicians, attendants and patients who were mentioned by J. Mills and whoever, so far tion with him while here."

as we can find out, had any connec-

After giving praise for the results attained at the intsitution upon what the committee considers an inadequate appropriation from the legislature, the report concludes as follows:

"We desire to state further that two United States government experts from the board of public health, namely Dr. Goldberger and Dr. Willetts, have been investigating for the past several months all of the state sanitarium in the United States, and after a thorough investigation have reported to the board of trustees of the Georgia State Sanitarium that they consider this institution the best equipped, the best managed and regulated of any institution they have yet examined. They have selected this institution for the purpose of making a thorough and complete test and examination of pellagrous patients on account of its superior facilities.

"We desire fuly and completely to exonerate Dr. Jones, the superintendent and the corps of able physicians in charge, and all of the present attendants as being efficient, honest, trustworthy and capable. They deserve the highest commendation at the hands of the board of trustees and the citizens of Georgia."

Mr. Mills' charge that he was drugged and committed to the institution under power of insanity was not taken up by the committee as it finds that commitment papers were properly made out and states that the jurisdiction of the sanitarium stops at that point.

The investigating committee was composed of H. H. Dean, of Gainesville; Dr. J. S. Jarnigan, of Warrenton, and Charles S. Brantley, of Valdosta.

Two Bright Entertainments Social Features for Today

Two brilliant entertainments mark the social program of today, a luncheon at which Mrs. Robert Foster entertains at Woodhaven at 1:30 o'clock in honor of her sister, Mrs. Robert Jackson, of Nashville, and the tea at 5 o'clock, which Mr. and Mrs. John E. Murphy give in honor of Miss Geraldine Farrar.

Tonight there will be many entertaining at the Capital City club after the opera, and this afternoon many informal teas are arranged at both Piedmont Driving club and the Druid Hills club.

Last night the Druid Hills club continued the joyous hospitality started there with the barbecue Wednesday, and last night found society gathered there in parties, large and small, the occasion a dinner-dance, when 400 guests were entertained. The guests of honor were the opera stars and the directors of the Atlanta Music Festival association, and the Druid Hills crowd acted as their hosts, entertaining the artists in groups which mingled the strangers with their Atlanta admirers.

The club house, with its spacious ball room, palm room and entrance hall, admitted of an elaborate decoration, affording with the brilliant assemblage of guests a repetition of the spectacular feature society has presented incident to the opera season.

In the ball room the inverted lights of the huge central chandelier had hung from it eight baskets filled with pink roses, Easter lilies and smilax, little lights shining star-like through the flowers. On the walls were wall baskets filled with snap-dragons, lilies and roses, hung with fern and smilax, the star lights continuing their illumination. In the entrance and main hallway the same luxury of pink and white flowers were a part of the decorative scheme, while in the palm room there was the effect of a tropical garden, this hung with baskets filled with ferns and flowers, and the walls almost covered with vines and purple wistaria, had the eastern idea completed by many lanterns with bright colored shades. The spray of the fountain on the terrace kept fresh and bright the border of growing fern at the base and beyond could be seen the terraced green of the golf links, the white blossomed dogwood blossoms, the new green of the trees, while the perfume of the rhododendron growing not afar added to the charm of the atmosphere.

After Dinner.

After the dinner, dancing was enjoyed in the ball room, out on the terrace and all through the first floor of the clubhouse. The night was one ideal for al fresco entertaining and the occasion one sustaining the social brilliancy of the gayest social season of opera Atlanta has yet known.

In one of the larger parties where Colonel and Mrs. Peel and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Atkinson were the hosts, there were Miss May Atkinson, Miss Sohie Braslau, Miss Anna Case, Miss Elizabeth Schuman, Miss Melanie Kurt, Miss Rosina Galli, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lee Crew, Mr. Basil Ruysdael, Mr. Giorgio Polacco.

In another party were Mr. and Mrs. James H. Nunnally, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Althouse, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dargan, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dargan, Jr., Doctor and Mrs. Willis Westmoreland, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Meador, Mr. Andrea de Segurola.

In a party of eight entertained, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wessels, Mr. and Mrs. Seaman (Mable Garrison) were the honor guests.

In the party given by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Amato and Mr. and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst shared as the honors of the occasion. Invited to meet them were Miss Bori, Governor and Mrs. Slaton, Mr. and Mrs. John Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Arkwright, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Muray, Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Inman, Mrs. Flandeau, Miss Margaret Grant, Miss Goodrich, Miss Hamilton, Miss Segourney, Miss Cochrane, Colonel Willis Ragan, Colonel John Temple Graves, Mr. Orrin Peck, Mr. Willard McBurney, Mr. Hunter Perry, Mr. Bob Thach, Doctor Hallenger and Doctor Calhoun.

ACCOUNTANTS STAND EXAMINATION MAY 19

Chairman Joel Hunter Issues Statement Telling the Requirements.

Chairman Joel Hunter, of the Georgia State Board of Certified Public Accountant Examiners, has issued a statement telling what candidates must do to pass the examinations which will be held under the direction of the board in Atlanta on May 19 and 20.

"There are now about 39 states that have enacted C. P. A. laws," says Mr. Hunter. "Before long it is confidently expected that all the states in the union will have passed such laws.

"All of the state laws are very much alike. In the main they provide a board of examiners whose duty it is to examine applicants in theoretical and practical accounting and in auditing and commercial law as affecting accountancy.

"The principal points of difference in these laws relate to the preparation of the applicant. In some states he is required to serve for a time in the office of a certified public accountant. In most states he is required to have the equivalent of a high school education. He should know something about the accounts of the most widely known forms of business ventures, namely, financial institutions, such as banks and trust companies and commercial houses, like general traders in groceries, hardware, dry goods, drugs, etc., and manufacturing establishments. Insurance and other general and special forms of doing business.

"He should be prepared also to devise and install accounting systems for at least some of these. He should have a working knowledge of commercial law.

"The board of examiners endeavors to reflect in the examination, what service the public wants the accountant to perform. The way then to pass the examinations is to make a careful preparation for them. The best way to prepare for them is to serve in the office of a C. P. A. for a reasonable length of time, it is possible to pass the examinations by self study and without outside help, but it generally takes several trials. If it is inexpedient to serve in the office of a C. P. A., the next best way is to take the course of study offered by a correspondence school in charge of experienced accountants, unless one is fortunate enough to be able to attend a resident school in one's own city.

"Applicants who wish to obtain the full statement may write to Chairman Joel Hunter, Atlanta.

"That the municipal authorities of any other city in this state, and W. and all other persons, firms or corporations in this state engaged in or conducting businesses similar to those conducted by respondents in this complaint, who may so desire, be and they are hereby given the right and privilege to intervene and be heard upon the issues raised, subject to such rules of procedure as may be prescribed by the commission."

Probation Officer C. J. Coogler gave out a notice Thursday for publication in regard to the order of the recorder which took away from him the power to force delinquent husbands to pay a part of their wages to their families.

PROHIBITIONISTS CALL MEETING IN ATLANTA

Speakers of National Note Will Be on Hand to Address Great Gathering.

The fight for prohibition in the legislature was planned and arrangements were made for the attendance of the Georgia contingent at the Anti-Saloon League National biennial convention in Atlantic City, in July, at a meeting of the headquarters committee called yesterday by the chairman, Dr. H. M. DuBose.

The committee called a state convention of all prohibitionists and temperance organizations in Georgia to be held in Atlanta on June 22, just before the convening of the legislature. Various plans to have on hand speakers of national note and to compile full details of the status of the liquor question in Georgia, which will be presented to the legislators, were agreed upon by the committee.

The state superintendent, Dr. Eichelberger, told the committee that all congressmen who voted against the Hobson bill and the Webb-Kenyon bill showed clearly that they were against temperance measures and that each one would be vigorously opposed at his next election. He pointed out that Congressmen Lee, Vincent and Bartlett, of Georgia, were in this class.

Thirty thousand are expected to attend the national convention which meets in Atlantic City July 6, 7, 8 and 9. The Georgia members of the board of directors of the National Anti-Saloon League of America were nominated by the headquarters committee as follows: Dr. H. M. DuBose, Dr. L. G. Hardeman of Commerce, Dr. J. L. White, Dr. W. S. Witham, G. W. Eichelberger and W. C. Vereen of Moultrie. These directors serve for two years.

DONEHOO UNAFRAID

Explodes Threat of Imprisonment by "Ring"

DESPERATE METHODS USED BY OPPOSITION TO PREVENT DONEHOO'S ELECTION TODAY AS ORDINARY

Donehoo Defies Mr. Jeffries to Cite Georgia Law on Bribery

The frenzied efforts of the Jeffries interests to reclaim a lost victory by charging me with the crime of bribery, is at once contemptible and silly, and is an insult to the voters whom they say I am trying to bribe.

Is it possible that a candidate who offers himself for a Georgia judgeship can be so ignorant of Georgia law? There is nothing illegal in my pledge to return to Fulton county the profits of the Ordinary's office in excess of $5,000, which is the salary voted by the people to be paid their Ordinary for his services.

I fear no prosecution. I know the law on the subject. No act of mine can be criminal unless I violate some law on the statute books. No Georgia law exists which forbids me from obeying the expressed will of the people, and no Georgia court has ever construed, or will construe, as illegal, the performance of my pledge. The frantic efforts of the ring's legal advisers to frighten me, only make me smile.

If the ring can show that my pledge to carry out the expressed will of the people is bribery, then a term of imprisonment has no terrors for me.

The Truth Concerning Mr. Henry Wood

Merely in reply to Mr. Jeffries, I will mention that on the same morning Mr. Wood's printed card appeared in The Constitution, in which he said no candidate ought to make political capital out of his withdrawal from the Ordinary's race, I received a very friendly letter of explanation from Mr. Wood, with the request that the contents of his letter be considered confidential. I cannot publish that letter without violating an imposed trust. Since then I have, for Mr. Wood's sake, refrained from using his name in any printed cards, but the Jeffries interests, grabbing at straws, have continuously tried to make political capital out of Mr. Wood's neutral statement.

Later in the day, when Mr. Wood saw the unfair advantage which the ring took of his personal card, he sent, unsolicited by me, a second letter, which he said I might publish if I saw fit to do so.

Mr. Wood vindicates the truth of my statements in this campaign. His second letter is herewith reproduced:

HUBERT L. CULBERSON, County Treasurer.
HENRY M. WOOD, Clerk and Ex-officio County Auditor.
W. T. WILSON, County Highway Engineer.

C. M. HOLLAND, Purchasing Agent.

ATLANTA, GA., April 27, 1915.

Mr. Paul Donehoo,
Atlanta, Ga.
My dear Sir:—

In the card I published in this morning's paper I studiously avoided saying anything calculated to bring in question the truth of any statement made by you or your friends or any one else.

I am and have been concerned solely in keeping out of the matter altogether and have not intended, nor do I now intend, to be drawn into the race or the issues involved.

You know me too well to think for a moment that I would willingly injure or do anything calculated to bring criticism on you or any one else, but lest you might have misunderstood what I said, I write this to set myself straight with you.

Yours very truly,
H. M. WOOD.

Mr. Wood is not an issue in this campaign. His retirement was merely incidental to other significant happenings in the courthouse, some of which I have told the people about.

Why Paul Donehoo Entered the Race

TO THE VOTERS OF FULTON COUNTY:

On this, the day of the election, I wish to call the attention of the voters briefly to certain facts in connection with my race for Ordinary.

I entered this race impelled by what I consider a laudable ambition to be advanced in your service. Having served six and a half years as coroner, and having demonstrated, as I believe, beyond peradventure of a doubt, my capacity as a public official, I come to you asking for promotion.

For a number of years I have been a practicing attorney, and my legal training and experience, I believe, eminently qualify me for the judicial office of Ordinary.

I entered this race of my own volition—single-handed—and without the backing of any ring or faction. With each day since my announcement it has been a source of gratification to me to find that the principles for which I stand have drawn to me the ever-increasing and enthusiastic support of the thinking public.

I am deeply grateful for this, and when you have elected me your Ordinary, which you will do today, I promise to fulfill every pledge made to you during my campaign, rendering to you faithful, courteous and competent service.

That my election is assured I confidently believe. I ask—and urge—my friends and the voters generally who believe as I believe—believe that "ring" rule has no place in our county affairs and should be abolished—believe that the affairs and records of the Ordinary's office should be an open book to all citizens—believe that the will of the people should be carried out in the payment of a reasonable salary to the Ordinary—TO COME OUT TODAY and cast your vote for me. If you do this, there can be no doubt of my election.

Faithfully,
PAUL DONEHOO.

Miss Marguerite Ward Weds Mr. Charles Frederick Roddey

The wedding of Miss Marguerite Ward and Mr. Charles Frederick Roddey took place last evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Burnard Carzon Ward, on Ponce de Leon avenue, in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

The ceremony was performed by Bishop Candler, of the Methodist church, and the attendants were: Miss Madge Horne, maid of honor, and Mr. Lee Harvey, best man. Miss Louise Parker and Miss Eloise Walker were ribbon bearers, and the bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Jesse L. Ward.

The lower floor of the Rosslyn was thrown together and elaborately decorated with a wealth of greenery and flowers, and many tiny electric lights, under pink tulip shades and garlanded with smilax. The broad hallway was the scene of the ceremony. The walls were hung with bamboo and smilax. At either end of the apartment were grouped palms and ferns and tall white baskets filled with lilacs, sweet peas and valley lilies. The altar, a massing of palms and ferns, with Easter lilies, and bride roses, was in the center of the hallway. Above the altar was a canopy of smilax and valley lilies, starred with the electric lights.

The bride was beautiful in her wedding gown of white duchess satin combined with rose point lace, and she wore a brooch of pearls and diamonds set in platinum, the gift of the groom.

Her tulle veil fell from a little cap of lace, was adjusted to the cap with a chaplet of orange blossoms. She carried orchids and valley lilies.

Miss Horne wore green tulle and a Castle hat with pink ostrich tips, and carried a muff of pink roses and valley lilies. The ribbon bearers wore pink tulle gowns and carried bonnet-shaped baskets filled with pink roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Ward, the bride's mother, wore a handsome gown of old blue lace over flesh-colored tulle and silk, with corsage bouquet of valley lilies and orchids. Mrs. Rosser Ward wore white lace. Mrs. J. L. Ward was gowned in pink taffeta. Mrs. Jesse L. Ward wore pink tulle with girdle of silver.

A buffet supper was served during the evening. In the center of the bride's table in the dining room was a large basket filled with pink roses, lilacs, sweet peas and maidenhair fern. The bride's cake, embossed in pink roses and wreathed with roses and valley lilies, contained the usual symbols.

An orchestra played the wedding march and gave a beautiful program during the receiving following.

The front veranda was inclosed and made attractive with Japanese lanterns and baskets of ferns. The punch bowls were presided over by Miss Mary Rice, Miss Rosa Bell Chapman, Miss Bettie Lee Swann and Miss Mary Lucy Turner.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wise, Miss Annie Nolan, of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Rosser Ward, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ward, Mrs. C. B. Ward, of Stockbridge; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Swann, of Birmingham, and Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Etheridge, of Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Roddey left for a trip of several weeks east and, returning, will be at home with the bride's mother.

The bride's going-away gown was of blue gabardine, and she wore with it a green hat trimmed in gray soura.

For Mrs. Cannon.

Mrs. W. C. Wardlaw will entertain at a small bridge party this morning at her home on Juniper street, in compliment to Mrs. Martin Cannon, of Concord, N. C., who is the guest of Mrs. George Forrester for the opera.

Mrs. George M. Brown entertained twelve guests at the tea-dance Wednesday at the Driving club, and among those to entertain next week for Mrs. Cannon will be Mrs. Edward Van Winkle, who will entertain at the tea-dance Wednesday at the Driving club.

For Visitors.

Miss Hazel Kirk entertained delightfully at a rook party Tuesday at her home, "Tarrymore," in honor of her guests, Miss Helen Steinmetz and Miss Julia Steinmetz, of Norristown, Pa., and Miss Ethel Lounsbury, of Opelika, Ala., the guest of Miss Marjorie Thomas.

The game was played in the sun parlor, which was decorated with palms and quantities of spring flowers. The guests of honor were given crepe de chine handkerchiefs, and the prize, a French satin vanity bag, was cut by Mrs. L. M. Gomery.

Monday Miss Marjorie Thomas gave a luncheon at the Piedmont in their honor.

Alliance Francaise.

This afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, in the University club, a very interesting program will be carried out by the Alliance Francaise. Visitors from other cities will be there as guests of the Atlanta group.

Miss Barili to Read.

This evening, at 7:30 o'clock, Miss Viola Barili will read, in costume, several sketches of children, Italians and negroes. This forms the fourth of the Drama league's series of recreation readings for young business men and women whose occupation keeps them from the regular club meetings of Atlanta. Thanks to the generosity of the readers who give their services, they are quite free to the public, which is always cordially invited, and which has so manifested itself on each of the two former meetings, many were turned away.

Miss Barili is a brilliant and charming reader, and a niece of the great Adeli Patti. Her diction is especially clever, and a large audience is sure to greet her.

A Charming Visitor.

A charming visitor to Atlanta is Mrs. R. W. Hunt, of Eatonton, who has been the guest of Governor Slaton and Mrs. William D. Grant, at the executive mansion. She was with Mrs. Grant and Governor and Mrs. Slaton at the "Carmen" performance Wednesday evening.

Her toilet was markedly handsome. It was a Paris creation, made entirely of rose point lace. Every detail of lace outlined by hand-applied cut jet and crystal. With this was worn a Venetian point lace coat.

MEETINGS

The annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary societies of the Methodist church, south, of the Atlanta district, will be held May 6 and 7, at St. John's church, corner Georgia and Central avenues.

The morning sessions will begin at 10 o'clock.

Atlanta lodge, 236, is invited, first vice grand president, Mrs. Ada E. Marshal, arrived from Jacksonville, Fla., yesterday. She will conduct the meeting. She will also be here for the anniversary Saturday night. All B. of L. lodges are invited. Georgia, 866; Atlanta, 720; Altoona, 202.

Amato Is Given Big Ovation For His Work in "Rigoletto"

The brilliance of the matinee production yesterday of "Rigoletto" bids fair to rival that of any event of this season's engagement of the Metropolitan Opera company, and the demonstration accorded Amato was an individual triumph as memorable as the beauty of the opera.

Rigoletto marks the second period of Verdi's development, and is brilliantly typical of that period in its dramatic fervor and its harmonic variety, as colorful as the costumes at the pleasure-loving court of the Duke of Mantua.

While the opera throughout sustains an intense interest, its richness in melody heightened in effect by frequent passages of great passion and dynamic force, there are a number of incidents which stand out in their beauty and impressiveness—notably the quartet in the last act, which had to be repeated yesterday, the audience, probably, remembering the precedent they themselves had set three years ago and demanding an encore.

Hempel's Singing.

The cavalina "Caro Nome" is another of these moments, an opportunity beloved of coloratura singers. Frieda Hempel sang it with all the purity and grace of the true bel canto, and the dramatic beauty of her tragic scene with Rigoletto in the third act brought her many recalls.

A New Tenor.

Finally, there is the airy ode to "woman, fickle woman," which was doubly interesting in that it was sung by the new tenor, Luca Botta, whose singing threatened it with the same fate as the quartet—that it would have to be repeated.

Botta's romance in the first act introduced him auspiciously, his voice one of color, even sweetness and power, and he was given a rousing reception.

The Work of Amato.

The feature role was Amato's, and his "Rigoletto" is another finished portrait in the gallery of his masterpieces. Dramatically, his work was gripping, almost painful in its convincing fervor, and his voice was as plastic to dramatic end as was the tragic hunchback figure, the buffoon among courtiers transformed in an hour to a figure almost commanding in the sublimity of his woe and his wrath.

Through all the tremendous emotionalism of the third act, the climax of the tragedy, Amato's voice only deepened and grew more rich with passion, and afterwards the audience ceased its demonstration only when exhausted.

The bravado and bluster of Sparafurile Segurela made a striking feature of the opera, although it might, in less capable hands, be merely an incident. The baritone beauty of Sophie Braslau's contralto was a radiant element in the last act. The smaller parts were adequately taken by Mattfeld, Rossi, Begue, Audisio, Reschiglian, Egener and Bonigzzi.

Polacco, conducting, exploited well the variety and force of the score, and there was the usual splendid background for the cast in the work of the chorus. LOUISE DOOLY.

JOBBERS of PLATE and WINDOW GLASS

CITIES SHACKLED BY RING POLITICS

Antiquated Assessment Systems, Haphazard Budgets and Untrained Employees, According to Dr. Dowling.

Muskogee, Okla., April 29.—Cities of the United States must throw off the shackles of "ring politics, antiquated assessment systems, haphazard budgets, employment of the untrained and extravagant" before real municipal efficiency can be realized, according to Dr. Oscar Dowling, president of the Louisiana board of health and president of the Southern Medical association, addressing the Southern Commercial Congress here today.

Dr. Dowling spoke on "Municipal Efficiency in Relation to the Health Department" and asserted that there is not one municipality in the United States where sanitation and the health program is as comprehensive as it should be.

"Consequently, while much has been accomplished," he said, "there is no city to which the term efficient rightfully may be applied.

"Experiments of European cities prove it is remunerative for a city to create a sanitary environment, to protect the individual from threatened dangers, by observation, advice and treatment, and to establish agencies for the promotion of mental and moral health. A program of health may develop parasitism in a few, but it is certain to bring good to the many."

"None of these can be accomplished," he continued, "until you have thrown off the municipal shackles, which tie so many cities to inefficiency."

Several commercial secretaries discussed problems involved in municipal efficiency.

A. V. Snell, of Charleston, S. C., pointed out that "the south must stop shipping its raw materials to foreign nations and to the north and must learn to produce finished products through co-operation.

Small Factories Urged.

"The south should manufacture its raw materials in the factories of the south and sell the finished products in the markets of the south," he said. "This can be accomplished by the business men of every community combining and establishing small factories that will finish the product of the surrounding district. Such co-operation between the farmer and the city man would eliminate an enormous annual loss to the south."

Carl J. Baer, of Little Rock, Ark., said that a great step toward municipal efficiency is a thoroughly organized, thoroughly equipped commercial body.

"I mean a body through which not only the business man, but also every citizen of a town can get a vision of the opportunity and problems of his city. We should begin in the schools to teach our children to boost their municipality."

Howard Strong, of Minneapolis, Minn., asserted that the production of leaders in civic life is the greatest element in the real progress of a city.

The kitchen should not be made a place for drudgery, but an interesting laboratory for household experiments, according to Mrs. George C. Lewis, in an address before the opening session of the woman's auxiliary of the congress today. Mrs. Lewis, who is vice president of the woman's auxiliary, asserted that all possible housework should be made easier by machinery, thus "relieving the dull monotony of work that often drives country folks to the cities."

Health Department Urged.

A plea for a national department of health, whose head shall have a seat in the president's cabinet, was made by Senator Robert L. Owen, of Oklahoma. Senator Owen is the author of a bill now pending in congress which would establish such a department.

"The safeguarding of the health of our people is as important as any problem we are facing," Senator Owen said.

He then pointed out the loss of life, efficiency and property from preventable diseases, asserting that considering the matter from a financial basis alone, the country could save a vast sum by the creation of such a department.

A similar argument was made by J. H. White, chief surgeon of the United States bureau of public health.

Flag of Merit for Arkansas.

Arkansas was awarded the flag of merit of the Women's auxiliary of the Southern Commercial congress here tonight as being the state in the south that has accomplished most toward civic improvement in the last year. The flag was held by Tennessee last year.

In making the award Miss Louise C. Lindsley, of Nashville, Tenn., president general of the Woman's auxiliary, pointed out the vast improvement made by Arkansas in rural schools, roads and sanitation. City women and country women in facing their problems to cooperate in fixing their promens and are thus removing a big obstacle in the path of progress, she said.

For the first time since the opening of the convention the Woman's auxiliary conducted the night session.

American women can do much to help solve the problems of rural and town credit by observing the modes of European peasant women with regard to clothing, according to an assertion of Mrs. Marion Sherwood Lahman, of Tulsa, Okla. Mrs. Lahman presented a report of the American commission, of which she was a member appointed last year by governors of the various states and authorized by President Wilson to investigate agricultural conditions in Europe.

"European women make their clothing for warmth and utility and of a style that is as fixed as the laws of the Medes and the Persians," she said. "This example, if followed by my fashionable sisters, would be a tremendous factor in the solution of many of our financial problems."

European Women as Farm Laborers.

Speaking of intensive farming in Europe, Mrs. Lahman pointed out that the part played by European women in working farm lands permits of a system of cultivation which our farmers cannot afford.

"I doubt if the most ardent advocate of applying the European plan to our country would urge Kansas, for instance, to double the number of her farm laborers in the same way she doubled her voters," she said.

Miss Lindsley urged closer relations with South American nations, in her annual address, asserting it is the duty of every state to compel the teaching of Spanish in the public schools.

Mrs. B. A. Enloe, of Nashville, Tenn., pointed out that the greatest field in which women of today can labor is in obtaining legislation along the lines of juvenile reform.

"The practice carried on in some states of requiring erring children to be dealt with in the same manner in which we deal with adult criminals is barbaric," she said.

FORTY PERSONS HURT IN TROLLEY COLLISION

Fremont, Ohio, April 29.—Two score persons were injured when two interurban cars on the Lake Shore collided near here late today. Mrs. Flora Bonter, of Fremont, is expected to die. Several others are suffering from serious hurts.

Fire that broke out immediately after the crash burned both cars. Many of the injured were brought here in automobiles; others were taken to Clyde, Ohio.

Viscount Bryce Named.

London, April 29.—Viscount Bryce, formerly British ambassador at Washington, has been appointed to represent Great Britain on the commission to which, under the Anglo-American treaty of 1914, any issues between the two countries which might not yield to diplomatic adjustment would be submitted.

Georgia Federation Leaders Hold a Meeting in Atlanta

Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, presided at a large meeting of the executive board yesterday morning, when the following members were present:

Mrs. Claud Irby, Kingston; Mrs. Mike Powell, Newnan; Mrs. J. E. Hays, Montezuma; Mrs. Bruce Jones, Macon; Mrs. Walter Lamar, Macon; Mrs. A. O. Granger, Cartersville; Mrs. F. S. Shippen, Ellijay; Mrs. Dan Lyle, College Park; Mrs. Clifford Smith, Lafrange; Miss Ross Woodberry, Mrs. Harvie Jordan, Mrs. Howard McCall, Mrs. Hugh Willet, Mrs. Nellie Peters Black, Mrs. Lyman Amsden, Mrs. Henry B. Wey, Miss Alice Baxter, Mrs. Julian Bailey, Mrs. E. W. Lazarus, Mrs. Rolling Jones, Mrs. A. P. Coles, Miss Bessie Kempton, Mrs. James Jackson, Mrs. P. J. McGovern, Mrs. M. M. Parks, Milledgeville; Mrs. Robert T. Daniel, Griffin; Mrs. John E. Graham, Marietta; Mrs. W. L. Hines, Calhoun; Mrs. Logan Pitts, Calhoun; Mrs. W. C. Holt, Albany; Mrs. H. G. Hastings, Decatur; Mrs. W. H. S. Hamilton, Decatur; Mrs. Fort Bankston, West Point; Mrs. S. B. Yow, Avalon.

There was an interesting discussion of Georgia's share of the sum for agricultural development provided by the Smith-Lever bill. The steps to be taken toward securing a fair share for the development of woman's work were referred to the chairmen of the agriculture, country life and home economic committees.

The development of canning clubs and the school as a social center, was discussed.

A splendid report was made by Mrs. Nellie Peters Black on agricultural rallies over the state, in which she heartily thanked the women in the ten districts where the rallies were held.

About five thousand people were addressed at these meetings, and they will be productive of great good. Georgia is the first state where the women have done this work.

The eloquent presentation of the condition and needs of the Tallulah Falls Industrial school, made by the director, Mrs. Hugh Willet, was heard with interest.

Miss Alice Baxter urged the observance of May 18 as Peace day by the women's clubs of the state with appropriate programs.

Mrs. B.—They had their wedding rehearsal last evening. Mr. B.—Yes; they are now supposed to be prepared for the worst.—Boston Record.

FOR FAILING STRENGTH

JEFFRIES THANKS HIS FRIENDS

At the dawning of the day on which the voters of Fulton county will select their Ordinary, I desire most heartily for myself and associates to express my deep appreciation for the great number of pledges of support which will be fulfilled today at the polls.

I feel confident of my election by an overwhelming vote, for I know that my friends are going to the polls to pay a just rebuke to some of the questionable methods used by one of my opponents in the campaign just closing.

A CLEAN CAMPAIGN

We have refrained from a campaign of mud-slinging or misstatements, and regret that it has been necessary within the past few days for me to show how ridiculous, irregular and demagogic some of the statements of Mr. Donehoo have been.

I believe I have done this to your entire satisfaction, and that the overwhelming vote I will get at the polls today will bear me out in this statement.

In previous cards I have amply set forth my position on the salary question as touching the Ordinary's office, but to further strengthen that position I wish to call your attention below to the law on the subject.

"I WILL NOT Resort to Unlawful Promises in Order to Gain Your Vote" Says Thos. H. Jeffries, Candidate for Ordinary.

I am a law-abiding citizen. As such, in good conscience, I cannot accept the challenge of my opponent to donate any portion of the emoluments of the office which I seek, to the County.

Here Is the Law: Read It

"A promise by a candidate for office, made to the electors generally, to serve, if elected, for less than the fees or salary allowed by law, constitutes bribery. Peoples vs. Thornton, 25 Hun (N. Y.) 456. See also State vs. Elting, 29 Kan. 397; Alford vs. Collins, 20 Pick. (Mass.) 418; Clements vs. Humphries, 74 Tex. 466; 12 S. W. Rep. 99; State vs. Purdy, 36 Wis. 213. And a candidate for a public office, who, for the purpose of influencing the voters, makes a pledge to pay into the County all fees received by him in excess of a certain annual salary, is guilty of offering a bribe to the voters."

Let me urge upon my friends the importance of Going to the Polls and Voting as early as possible.

Do this and my election is assured.

Respectfully,

THOS. H. JEFFRIES,

CANDIDATE FOR ORDINARY

VICE PRESIDENT MILLER.

Much gratification will be felt in Atlanta over the promotion of Henry W. Miller to be vice president of the Southern Railway company, with headquarters in Atlanta. The location of a vice president in Atlanta is a distinct recognition of Atlanta's importance as the hub of this great railroad system and of the whole south, but the pleasure which Atlantans will feel in this will not be greater than that at the personal advancement of Mr. Miller, who, in his five years' residence in Atlanta, has won a wide circle of friends and admirers here and throughout the state.

In his dealings with the public and with the state railroad commission and other regulatory bodies Mr. Miller has well illustrated the wisdom of the policy of frank dealing with the public on the part of public service corporations, and his work has contributed a great deal to the spirit of better feeling between the people and the railroads generally, which is a happy condition in Georgia today. The value the Southern railway puts on his services to it is best expressed in the action of President Harrison and the board of directors in selecting him for the vice presidency.

During his residence in Atlanta as assistant to the president Mr. Miller's personality has made a deep impression on all with whom he has come in contact. His appointment as vice president, of course, means that his residence in Atlanta is to be permanent and this will mean much to the city, of which he has been a loyal and a valuable citizen.

Both Mr. Miller and the Southern railway are to be congratulated on his promotion.

OUR SCHOOLS--AND COUNCIL.

Atlanta's destiny as a progressive city depends upon the action of the finance committee of council in arranging for the June budget which calls for an extra appropriation for Atlanta's public school system. The committee will act next week, and in the meantime it is the obligation and the responsibility of every man and woman in Atlanta to use every influence to secure the necessary appropriation to make Atlanta's school system one to meet the demands of modern educational life.

The survey made jointly by the Atlanta School Improvement association, by the Atlanta Federation of Trades, by the ladies' visiting committee of the board of education and by the educational committee of the Atlanta Woman's club has awakened an interest which has reached the Ad Men's club, the Rotary club, and finally citizenship at large, when a committee of the citizens residing in the district of the Tenth Street school organized for school improvement Tuesday afternoon.

The assembling of these forces of both men and women has launched a campaign for the improvement of the schools which will be unceasing until Atlanta has not merely met with the physical demand of giving every child of school age the benefits of a comfortable, well ventilated, well lighted school house, but a curriculum meeting the last message for the right training of the child.

Atlanta must have not only the best school system in the state or the section, but she must have a school system that she can claim as commensurate with the best in the country. The present awakening to crippled conditions in the school system has been slow in coming. Citizens at large have allowed their institutions to become involved, and finally to become submerged in political complexities, that the child—the future citizen—has not been getting his rights.

The forces at work now—those who have brought to the public eye conditions as they exist in the schools—are not going to accept a compromise. They do not ask a revolution. They ask evolution and construction. They ask for a clean, well-defined building up of every department. There can be no taking from one department to help out another; no cutting from one salary to patch up another. There is not a department in the public schools that is not an integral part of the whole system, and there is not a department at present which is complete.

It would be like stopping to argue for the principles of democracy, or to reiterate the ideals of the republic, to exploit here the advantages the public schools are to the nation. They represent the very basic thought of democracy. They are the medium through which every child should pass, for the equipment that is his right as a child of the nation.

James Bryce, formerly British ambassador to the United States, who studied the nation at her most crucial period of development and who studied with the wisdom that years and experience can give, said twenty-five years ago that our weakness as a nation lay in our municipal governments and institutions adjunct thereto. Of these institutions, paramount always is the school system.

These are the facts the citizens of Atlanta must consider in making the fight for the rights of their children. It is time for citizenship at large and civic ideals to be separated from politics in all their pettiness of personal interest.

It is not putting it too strong to state that in the action of the finance committee of council relative to the public schools of Atlanta, the very destiny of the city depends.

SETTLING THE SOUTH.

Substantial beginning of a work that promises important and far-reaching results for this section has already been achieved by the Southern Settlement and Development organization, with headquarters in Baltimore, and of which S. Davies Warfield, financier, railroad man and developer, is president.

The Baltimore Sun tells of the establishment, already arranged for, of a colony of sixty families, composed chiefly of young farmers from the Panama canal zone, who will, within the next sixty days, create a new township in Charles county, Maryland, where they have already secured 4,000 acres and have options on 6,000 more. The men of these families come from the most substantial agricultural classes of Panama; they were not gathered up haphazard in pursuance of a commercial colonization scheme, but formed a club of their own, admitting to membership only dependable workers. The club formed, they looked about for their site, found what they wanted and are now on their way to it.

It was through the Southern Settlement and Development organization, one of whose chief assets is the direct personal interest of President Warfield, that this colony was brought to Maryland, and through its efforts that arrangements were made for financing the establishment—for financing in enterprises of this kind is, of course, essential. The financial end of the proposition has been turned over to a specially organized company which has been provided with ample capital, and a plan has been arranged under which there will be no serious hardship put upon the colony's members.

Speaking of the project and the prospects involved in it, The Baltimore Sun says:

> At least 2,500 acres will be cut up into small farms, and, perhaps, a larger area, if the Zone colony increases its membership. The company which has arranged terms and conditions of purchase that are easy to be met by the colonists has in reserve an additional contiguous tract of about 7,000 acres which may be divided into small farms and sold to individual owners. So that eventually, instead of a farm colony of fifty families, the Charles county settlement will most likely expand to a hundred and fifty families. But at that there will be room for more settlers, and a splendid opportunity also for those who have the kind of stuff in them that goes to the making of a good farmer. There is reason upon which to base the expectation that this Zone club colony marks the beginning of an agricultural and horticultural renaissance for which southern Maryland has been long hoping, watching, waiting.

Maryland, already more thickly settled than Georgia and other states of the south, still has plenty of room for men of the right sort, and sees in this project a development that will mean unquestioned constructive advantage to the state.

The way is open for Georgia and other southern states to avail themselves of the good offices of this organization whose announced purpose is "to develop the south," and chief among whose by-laws, printed in red, is the statement, "That it shall NOT be one of the objects to make money for the said organization or the members thereof."

Georgia alone could take care of a hundred colonies of the right sort of men—could place them to the advantage of herself as well as that of the colonists. There is a valuable opportunity in the activities of the Southern Settlement and Development organization, of which no southern state should lose sight.

Hope that the war will end in June has been abandoned, so they'll have an opportunity to rub it in with "Is it hot enough for you?"

There are those who cannot forgive Mr. Barnes for making the Colonel emerge from his internment.

Now that General Prosperity is on the march, it is hoped that he will keep a level head and not lose the bass drum.

Huerta must be hard up—his talk about saving Mexico is so cheap.

While demolishing Barnes the Colonel is building beautiful air castles.

"Prosperity parades" in different cities. Even the pessimists admit there's enough to make a showing now.

Still, Uncle Joe Cannon doesn't like dancing well enough to attempt a waltz with the dizzy G. O. P. elephant.

Constitution Thanked By Bainbridge People

Editor Constitution: We thank you in the name of southwest Georgia for your excellent editorial this morning on the passage of the first steamer through the St. Andrews Bay and Apalachicola River canal, which opens up the way to deep water for the cities along the Flint and Chattahoochee rivers. When one remembers that Atlanta is busy with a great musical week your thoughtfulness is all the more appreciated.

The opening of the canal is the biggest event for this section in recent years. Not since John W. Culhan, nine years ago, began his steamer line and put its big vessels plying between Bainbridge and Apalachicola has such a step forward been taken toward freight rate reduction. Today Bainbridge's rates are on a parity with those of Augusta and Columbus on account of the use we have put the river to and we feel that the new canal will mean a further reduction along the lines of heavy stuff from gulf and even eastern points, as soon as present plans are put through.

Again we thank you.

Very truly,

BOARD OF TRADE.

HERE IS THE STORY OF TONIGHT'S OPERA AT THE AUDITORIUM

"L'Amore dei Tre Re," a tragic poem, is a drama of emotions, rather than of action.

The story is laid in a remote castle in Altura, Italy, in the middle ages, forty years after the barbarian invasion.

The first act introduces Archibaldo, a blind, but majestic old baron, who, led by his guide, Flamino, comes before dawn to the great hall and terrace overlooking the country beyond to await impatiently the return of his son, Manfred, who is fighting to retain the country his father had conquered forty years before.

Opening on the hall is the bed chamber of his son's wife, Fiora, a daughter of the conquered people, who had been betrothed to Avito, one of her own race, but is surrendered to the guardianship of the conqueror, and reared tenderly to be the wife of Manfred.

Archibaldo, entering the hall, surprises Fiora as her lover, Avito, after a fond leave-taking, escapes, too late, however, to deceive the blind baron, who suspects his daughter-in-law, and fearfully questions her. She declares she only awaits her husband, but the baron is unconvinced, when a trumpet blast outside announces the return of Manfred.

Fiora greets him with cold kindness, but his love is too full for chiding, and he receives her with devotion.

In the second act, Manfred, taking his departure, beseeches Fiora, as his only request, that she will wave her scarf to him from the highest tower, which is the last thing he will see as he journeys back to the war.

In pity she promises, but he has scarcely gone when Avito appears in the disguise of a castle guard.

She tries to ward off his protestations, and tells him he must go. A maid brings in the scarf Manfred has sent for the farewell, and she waves it wearily from the wall.

Avito returns, and urges her again passionately for a farewell token of her love. She bids him kiss the hem of her gown, but finally yields to his love and falls into his arms.

Archibaldo surprises them, and hears Avito's retreating footsteps.

He upbraids Fiora, who at first denies the visit of Avito, and then, with courage, admits it was her lover. Archibaldo demands his name, but she refuses, begging that she may tell Manfred instead, who is kind.

The old man threatens her, and when she will not tell he chokes her.

Manfred enters with joyous anticipation. His father tells him of Fiora's fate and of her infidelity. Manfred, even in his grief, marvels and loves her the more that she was capable of so great love, greater than her life.

He asks the name of the betrayer, and the old man does not know, but they go forth together to seek him.

The third act reveals the dead Fiora on her bier, surrounded by the mourning people.

They leave, and Avito enters. He presses his lips to hers, and observes a peculiar exhalation. He is discovered by Manfred, who tells him his father has smeared Fiora's lips with a deadly poison to entrap her lover. Avito feels the approach of death and falls. Manfred, seized with fear and desperate, presses his lips also to Fiora's, and his father, seeking the betrayer, arrives to find the dying Manfred. The curtain falls.

Authority.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

Authority is the right to tell some other man what to do. It is the oldest of all rights. Long before the first man had found another man small enough to lick for disobedience, he had discovered that he was stronger than his wife.

Today, many men who have no one in the wide world to order around, can still go thankfully home and tell some meek little woman, in kindly tones, that dinner had better be ready a little earlier tomorrow, in order to preserve international peace and domestic calm.

Authority is harder to use correctly than an aeroplane. Some men are naturally geniuses with authority, and are able to suggest the duties of the ten thousand other men in such a manner as to make themselves the recipients of affection and gold-headed umbrellas on anniversaries. But most men handle authority as awkwardly as they would a ball gown. The world is full of men who have been invested with the management of one or two human beings apiece, and are giving up holidays and other pleasures for the bliss of standing around and making the said human beings jump around a little bit livelier.

We have a few real slaves in these days, but a vast number of men who are required to make a noise like a dog mat under some other man. This is a very disagreeable task, and fills the human door mats with a deep and fervent desire to rise far enough in life to acquire door mats of their own.

Authority is still necessary in this world, but it should be distributed very carefully. Some men have no more business with authority than a 5-year-old boy has with his father's shotgun. There should be federal examinations in the use of authority, and the man who cannot grant an employee a chance to work for a living without keeping him perpetually reminded of the fact that he may be fired at any moment when his taste in neckties, wives or humility doesn't suit, should be enjoined from the authority business.

About the only people in this country who do not possess authority are office holders. It should always be a comfort to the man who is being bullied by his employer to think that at any time he may go to Washington if he can save enough money, and order his congressman around.

RIPPLING RHYMES

By WALT MASON.

LITERATURE.

I like a rattling story of whiskered buccaneers, whose ships are black and gory, who cut off people's ears. A yarn of Henry Morgan warms up my jaded heart, and makes that ancient organ feel young and brave and smart. I like detective fiction, it always hits the spot, however poor in diction, however punk in plot; I like the sleuth who follows a clue o'er hill and vale, until the victim swallows his medicine in jail. I like all stories ripping, in which some folks are killed, in which the guns go zipping, and everyone is thrilled. But when I have some eyeballs, I hide those books away, those good old soul enthrallers which make my evenings gay. I blush for them, by jingo, and all their harmless games; I talk the highbrow jingo, and swear by Henry James. When sitting in my shanty, to "have my picture took," I hold a work by Dante, or other heavy book. But when the artist's vanished, I drop those dippy pomes, old Dante's stuff is banished—I reach for Sherlock Holmes.

DEKALB, CLAYTON, HENRY, BUTTS, MONROE ORGANIZE TO SECURE DIXIE HIGHWAY

The citizens of DeKalb, Clayton, Henry, Butts and Monroe counties have organized to get the Dixie highway to pass through those counties along the following route from Atlanta to Macon:

From Atlanta to the Federal prison, from which point the Southern railroad right-of-way will be closely followed to McDonough, in Henry county. Between Atlanta and McDonough the proposed route passes through the southwest corner of DeKalb county, and the northeast corner of Clayton county. From McDonough the route goes to Locust Grove, in Henry county, and from there to Jackson, in Butts county. From Jackson, the road goes to Indian Spring, in Butts county, and from Indian Spring to Forsyth, in Monroe county. The last lap is from Forsyth to Macon.

The people of the counties mentioned are aroused to the importance of securing the Dixie highway and already the roads are being put in better condition.

Committee Arrives in Atlanta.

The following committee arrived in Atlanta Thursday morning and held a conference with Commissioner Clark Howell in regard to the proposed route between Atlanta and Macon: Dr. J. G. Smith, Dr. B. E. Horton, J. T. Weems and John Bryans, of Henry county; A. Gaston, county commissioner of Butts county. Mr. Bryans is the commissioner of Henry county.

The statement made by the committee that the proposed highway from Atlanta to Macon will be built within the year is accepted as a part of the Dixie highway or not.

"We are going to have a great highway along the route we have selected, and we want it to be a part of the Dixie highway, if possible," stated members of the committee. "It is the most direct and most feasible route between Macon and Atlanta. It can be constructed so that there will be only one railroad grade crossing on the entire route. There will be no fords to cross and no cheap, unsightly bridges. The highway will pass through some of the most historic spots in Georgia, among them the famous Indian spring, which belongs to the state. It is the same route that Sherman took in his noted march to the sea."

Condition of the Roads.

The distance between Atlanta and Macon via this route is about forty miles. Most of the roads are in excellent condition.

In DeKalb county the route takes in about three and a half miles of fairly good roadway. Commissioner Freeman, of that county, has given out the statement that he will see that the DeKalb county roads are put into first-class condition.

There are eight miles of roads in Clayton county which Commissioner Moore says will be worked at once.

There are twenty miles in Henry county, the most of which is in excellent condition. The roads that need work will be attended to at once, states Commissioner Bryans. Property owners in Henry county have subscribed between four and five thousand dollars for road work in addition to what the county has given. Last week the Henry county grand jury recommended that work be done at once on the roads that are to become a part of the proposed highway.

Wonderful Road Improvements.

Five years ago in Henry county there was not a single good road for automobiles; today there are 300 miles of splendid roadways.

In Butts county there are fourteen miles of roads that will be a part of the highway and every mile is in most excellent condition. Some of the roads have been surfaced fully thirty feet wide. There are no grades except at Indian Spring and this part of the highway will be graded within the next thirty days.

In Monroe county there are eight miles of good roads by which the highway will lead into Forsyth.

From Forsyth into Bibb county and through Bibb into Macon the roads are all fine.

Mr. Gaston, of Butts county, said that in 1911 there were not two miles of good roads in his entire county. From 1911 to 1915, when the convicts were put to work on public roads, over two hundred miles of roads were graded and soiled from twenty-two to thirty feet in width.

"Our people have been thoroughly alive to the importance of good roads," stated the committee, "and now we want the Dixie highway, and we are going out after it."

Cobb County's Road.

Among the other callers on Mr. Howell yesterday morning was the delegation from the proposed McDonough route was Mr. W. J. Hendon, of Austell, Ga., chairman of the committee of roads and bridges of the Cobb county commissioners.

Mr. Hendon was at The Constitution office at the same time the other gentlemen called, and is included in the group photograph published today.

"Cobb county is intensely interested in the Dixie highway route," said Mr. Hendon. "We have already a splendid road in Cobb county from the Bartow line to the Chattahoochee river. That route is macadamized from beginning to end, and there is no more historic highway in the south than that part of the Dixie highway which will pass through Cobb county. It is the intention of our commissioners at an early date to take up the matter of improving the historic road that runs from Marietta, Nubings hill and reaches Fulton county over the Chattahoochee river bridge connecting with the Paces Ferry road. There is a link of three miles there which, when we are through with it, will make a magnificent route from Paces Ferry road straight to the main highway with which it connects at the trolley underpass between Smyrna and Atlanta.

"It is probable that the Dixie highway commission may deem it advisable to bring the highway into Atlanta by that route, and I have no doubt but that our commissioners at their next meeting will authorize an emphatic guarantee that whatever route may be selected through Cobb county we will put it in first-class condition and maintain it as an all-year-round road from the point where it enters our county to the point where it leaves."

And the Ghosts Of a Million Slain Marched By

THE missionary and the Hottentot have had an argument, and the missionary came out second best. This argument, quite naturally, was precipitated by the war—and was overheard by only one person. That person was Frank L. Stanton, who has written it faithfully, accurately, for The Sunday Constitution.

"The Missionary and the Hottentot" is the best poem Mr. Stanton has written for years. The Constitution sincerely believes it is the strongest poem written on the war, and with this belief presents it in full-page form, as the first page of its feature section Sunday. It is wonderfully illustrated in four colors by Nadherny, an artist of international reputation.

WITH 50,000 others, you are probably a regular subscriber to The Sunday Constitution. If you are not, you nevertheless will want this wonderful poem by Georgia's great poet. Mr. Stanton has accomplished where Homer has failed. He has made the war the theme for a truly great poem—and what the Hottentot said "as the ghosts of a million slain marched by" will not be forgotten by the missionary in many a day!

THE feature section of The Sunday Constitution next Sunday will be the brightest, most interesting yet—and you know what that means.

Anatomical Meal Ticket

HAND, FOOT, ARM, THROAT! Which earns the most? Paderewski, Mrs. Vernon Castle, Jess Willard, Enrico Caruso—who gets the most for each minute of service? It is a full-page story, an interesting discussion of a novel subject—with an abundance of striking pictures and drawings.

Sight Out of Blindness

FOR twenty years she was completely blind. Then, in the snap of a finger, came sight. The story of this young lady's sensations, with pictures—a really truly story of this month—is told in The Constitution Sunday. Every member of the family will be interested—will enjoy reading it.

The Woman Behind the Plays

THE story of a little brown-haired, soft-voiced woman, who has given to the American stage one of the greatest of American playwrights, and two brilliant young actors who have helped to keep bright the luster of a great name. An absorbing story of a mother's work, attractively illustrated.

Morning Frocks for the Bride

THE CONSTITUTION'S four-color fashion page is, without question, the best fashion page published in America. Sunday's page will be devoted to morning frocks—text, drawings and photographs all of absorbing interest to all women who are interested in fashions—and that is all women!

The Greatest Comic

THAT is not an exaggerated statement. "Home Wanted by a Baby" is the greatest comic put out in ten years. In little more than a month's time it has become the favored comic of children and grown-ups in Georgia. It is the crowning achievement of the highest-salaried comic artist in the world. And at that, "Home Wanted by a Baby" has taken away none of the popularity of the ever-amusing "Hank the Hermit and His Animal Friends."

CHEAPER MONEY FOR THE FARMERS

Urged by Speakers at Chattanooga Conference--Rural Credits by National, Rather Than State, Action Is Urged.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 29.—Rural credits by national, rather than state, action was advocated by all the speakers at the conference session devoted to this question this morning. A campaign was set on foot which those present will carry forward until cheaper money for farm improvement and rural development is secured.

Dr. John Lee Coulter, of Nashville, outlined the plan of rural credits proposed by W. P. G. Harding, of the federal reserve board. He expressed the opinion, however, that congress should provide the system as a companion measure for the federal reserve act.

H. L. McElderry, a banker, of Talladega, Ala., owner of an estate two square miles in extent, urged a rural credits system which would enable the farmers to get cheap money through a new banking system, and also proposed a progressive tax on land holdings above forty acres, which it would make it impossible for any man to own more than 160 acres.

"Call me a socialist, if you will," he said, "I have told you what I believe." He solemnly warned the audience that the bread line threatened all our prosperity and bigness.

T. J. Brooks, of Mississippi, said that in thirty years Denmark had progressed from one of the poorest countries in Europe to one of the richest. He attributed it all to organization of farmers for distribution and marketing of their own commodities. American farmers needed additional credit facilities to enable them to do this, he said.

High Interest Paid by Farmers.

"The average farm profit in America is 5 per cent," said Mr. Brooks. "If the average farmer is compelled to pay more than that he is on the road to the poorhouse. Yet we know farmers are paying 8 to 16 per cent. It has been stated in the press that the farmer pays $200,000,000 more per year as interest on his debts than the commercial world pays."

Clarence Poe, editor of The Progressive Farmer, of Raleigh, N. C., submitted a report of the fundamental things which should be incorporated in any system of rural credits.

The existing banking system, created for serving commercial needs, was not adapted to agricultural needs, he asserted. What Europe has done for her farmers, America must do for hers, and every European government has given positive assistance to these methods of helping agriculture.

"The government must act," he continued. "At any time for one hundred years private capital might have provided such a system, but has not done so.

"Instead of having postal banks only in a few large cities offering 2 per cent on deposits, to be later loaned to banks at 2½ per cent, why should not all postoffices be allowed to receive deposits, at say 3 or 4 per cent interest, the savings form the basis of loans at 4 or 5 per cent.

WILSON SENDS LETTER TO RUSSIAN EMPEROR

Washington, April 29.—At the solicitation of Constantin Dumba, Austro-Hungarian ambassador here, President Wilson has sent a letter to Czar Nicholas, of Russia, submitting a request from the Austro-Hungarian government that detention camps for prisoners of war in Siberia be inspected by representatives of the United States.

Negotiations on this subject through American diplomatic channels have been under way for some time, without result. Officials here are confident, however, that the president's letter to the czar will bring a settlement of the question one way or another in the near future.

Germany sometime ago expressed a willingness to enter into an arrangement with Russia for the inspection of detention camps in the respective countries similar to the agreement already entered into with Great Britain. Russia has not yet acted upon this proposal.

The plan suggested contemplates inspection of camps in Russia by American diplomatic and consular offices and of those in Siberia by Red Cross agents.

YOUNG GIRL TELLS OFFICER THE STORY OF AUTO ACCIDENT

Vigilant search by the police resulted yesterday in the finding of the two young women who were passengers in Emory Quarles' machine which was badly damaged in an accident on Peachtree road in front of the home of Lindsey Hopkins on Wednesday night.

One young woman, Miss Mamie Bishop, a brunette, 17 years old, had been taken Wednesday night after the accident to a hotel near the Terminal station. She was badly bruised and will not be able to appear in police court. The other young woman lives on Spring street.

Miss Bishop, last night, told Detective Cochran the story of the accident.

"Another girl friend of mine, Ovelean Nelson, and I met Mr. Quarles and Mr. J. M. Anderson, who works for Mr. Quarles, with another friend, named Mr. D. E. Bolton, at the corner of Forsyth and Walton streets, about 7 o'clock," said Miss Bishop. "We got into the automobile, and proceeded out Peachtree street on a joy ride.

"We had been out some distance, and were coming back to the city at a terrific rate of speed when something got the matter with the steering gear, and we were hurled through the air, when the car struck a telephone pole.

"I don't remember anything else. How I came to be in this hotel I don't remember, though the clerk tells me that I walked in last night, assisted by three young men and another young woman."

Miss Bishop's left ear is split almost entirely off, and has several stitches in it. Her body is severely bruised.

Quarles will be tried before Recorder Johnson this afternoon on the charge of "reckless running of an automobile."

Night Chief E. L. Jett last night instructed Traffic Officer Allan Maddox to subpoena T. H. Santell, of 1324 Peachtree road; Cleo Case, a maid of Mrs. Lindsey Hopkins, 1324 Peachtree road, and the young women who were passengers in the car.

NEW TRIAL IS ASKED BY HUGH W. TIMOTHY

A petition for a new trial was filed by Hugh W. Timothy, charged with defrauding the mails, after a sentence of a year and a day had been imposed upon him in the federal court yesterday by Judge Newman. Timothy was admitted to bail under $1,500.

His attorneys asked the court to be lenient in view of the fact that he had been recently married and was endeavoring to establish himself in business in New York. The maximum penalty that could have been given is thirty years and a fine of $6,000, since each of the six counts on which Timothy was found guilty calls for a term of five years and a fine of $1,000.

Bridges Smith and Ed Bruffey Talk of Old Days in Atlanta

Mayor Bridges Smith, of Macon, Thursday renewed acquaintances of forty years ago when he came to Atlanta with City Engineer J. J. Gaillard and members of the street committee, of which Dr. W. G. Lee is chairman, to inspect the work being done by the Lutz heaters on Whitehall street.

"Why, here is Ed Bruffey, whom I used to know forty years ago, when I was a reporter on The Dispatch, and he was a reporter on The Constitution," said Mayor Smith. "Bruffey at that time was a reporter on The Post, an afternoon paper.

"It used to be the greatest ambition of my life to scoop Bruffey, and I was fortunate enough to put one over him every once in a while," said Mayor Smith. "I never shall forget writing a story of an accident that happened nine miles out of Atlanta and forcing Bruffey to hire a buggy and go to it."

The meeting between Mayor Smith and Ed Bruffey, for the past thirty years a reporter for The Constitution, was touching. Both men had many experiences to relate to the other, and Mayor Smith promised to return to Atlanta shortly and spend a whole day discussing old times with The Constitution's veteran reporter.

Mayor Smith held a long conference with Mayor James G. Woodward while here. Forty years ago they set type in the old-fashioned way, side by side, in the old Franklin Printing company.

"Jim is just the same old Jim I knew many years ago and I only regret that he has not in Atlanta such a congenial set of aldermen and councilmen as I have to deal with in Macon," observed Mayor Smith. "Atlanta is a wonderful city in some respects, but Macon is a wonderful city all over."

"The street committee will have a report to make to council Tuesday night, and from what I have seen of the Lutz heater I hope they will make a favorable report."

City Engineer J. J. Gaillard, of Macon, was in the party and was well pleased with the work of the Lutz heaters. Karl Brittain, superintendent of the sewer construction, took him over the work and showed him all the details being carried out by that department.

Dr. W. G. Lee, chairman of the Macon council street committee, motored to Atlanta and spent much of the day in inspecting the resurfacing of the streets in progress here. He expressed himself as well pleased.

TOO LAZY TO COOK, HUSBAND'S ANSWER TO SUIT BY WIFE

Mrs. Willie Dyer recently filed divorce proceedings against her husband, Arthur Dyer, alleging, among many other things, that he often failed to supply her with food.

Thursday the husband retaliated with a cross-bill, alleging, among other things, that the only time Mrs. Dyer was ever without food was when she was too lazy to cook it. He accuses her of neglect of household duty, idleness and general misconduct.

The Dyers were married in April of last year, but separated January, 1915.

DURHAM TO ACCOMPANY W. & A. INVESTIGATORS

E. M. Durham, an Atlanta civil engineer, was appointed by the governor Thursday to investigate the condition of the properties of the Western and Atlantic railroad, together with federal government representatives, for the purpose of ascertaining the value of the same.

This action was taken by the governor, it was stated, because it was feared that the federal officials appointed by the interstate commerce commission might place too low a value on the property of the state at a time when the road was soon to be released.

SECOND REQUISITION AGAINST R. W. DEAN

Governor Slaton has requested the governor of Alabama not to release R. W. Dean until a second requisition for him can be forwarded.

Dean was first arrested in Birmingham on a warrant sworn out by Tobwin Bros., of Atlanta, on the charge of falsely impersonating another, and a requisition for him was issued by Governor Slaton. It was claimed that the real purpose was to get Dean back to Atlanta to force him to pay a grocery bill and he was ordered released on a writ of habeas corpus.

The grand jury of Fulton county has indicted Dean on the charge of forgery.

Athens Man Is Held For Trial on Charge Of "White Slavery"

When arraigned before United States Commissioner Carter in the federal building on charges of violating the Mann white slave act, Thursday, A. Miles Bryant waived an examining trial and was bound over to the federal jury. His bond was fixed at $1,000. Bryant is proprietor of three leading barber shops of Athens, Ga.

Bryant was arrested in Atlanta Tuesday, upon the complaint of Miss Cora McGee, who says that he doped her after soliciting her services as a trained nurse during a trip from Atlanta to Knoxville, Tenn. Miss McGee states that Bryant represented himself to her as A. Miles, a wealthy man in need of rest and travel in the west. The government authorities are investigating.

FINE TALKS ARE MADE AT HOLINESS MEETING

The fourth day of the Holiness Union convention closed with an attendance greater than any day preceding. Rev. C. F. Wimberly, of Franklin, Ky., preached the closing sermon, his subject being "Purity, Power, Persecution." A young people's meeting, led by Mrs. Julia A. Shelhamer, of Atlanta, and an open air service, led by Rev. W. P. Yarbrough, preceded Dr. Wimberly's talk.

In the afternoon a song and praise service, led by Rev. James W. Reid, of Oakland City, Ind., was participated in by over 500. Rev. G. W. Mathews, of Fitzgerald, Ga., closed this meeting with a very good talk.

The morning program opened with the customary prayer service beginning at 8 o'clock. Following this a short business session was held, and later a talk was delivered by Rev. W. W. Owen, of Wilmore, Ky.

Rev. C. C. Cary, of Atlanta, and Dr. John Paul, of Columbia, S. C., preached, the former on "Inherited or Total Depravity," and the latter on "The Next Great Revival and Its Grand Work."

The 11 o'clock sermon was delivered by Rev. C. M. Dunaway, the Atlanta evangelist.

There will be one change in the regular program for today: Rev. John Paul, of Columbia, S. C., will speak at 10:30, instead of C. F. Wimberly.

Driver, Whose Auto Killed Mrs. Schley, Freed by Recorder

Although Recorder George E. Johnson yesterday ruled that H. C. Wiggins, a postal railway clerk, according to the evidence, had violated the state law which prohibits a vehicle from approaching and crossing a street crossing at a greater rate of speed than 6 miles an hour, the recorder dismissed the charge of "reckless running of an auto" against Mr. Wiggins, who, recently ran over and killed Mrs. Virginia Schley, aged 75, of 500 Peachtree street.

Lauren Foreman, publicity agent of the Southern railroad, testified he was sitting in an automobile, parked several feet from the corner of Linden street. He said that he heard Wiggins' car strike Mrs. Schley as it approached the intersection of the streets, and declared that the car dragged the body of Mrs. Schley almost to the street corner, a distance of fully 20 feet.

Mrs. M. C. Bowden, of 500 Peachtree street, was the only person to claim to have seen the car when it struck Mrs. Schley, testified that Wiggins was running at a high rate of speed on the wrong side of the street.

"You are guilty of violating the state law," said Recorder Johnson to Wiggins, "but I do not think that you are guilty of running your machine in a reckless manner. The accident is just one of those unavoidable and regrettable occurrences that will happen."

Overnight Relief For Constipation

When the bowels become clogged with a mass of poisonous stomach waste, sick headache with all its attendant misery, belching of sour stomach gases, biliousness and general discomfort are sure to follow.

A mild, pleasant laxative-tonic that will carry off the congested mass without upsetting the stomach or griping the bowels, is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. A dose taken just before retiring will afford grateful relief next morning, without unpleasantness or discomfort.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the ideal family remedy, especially for the women and children and old folks. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 152 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

For Ordinary

In offering myself for this important judicial office, I make the following statements: I am standing for reform and economical administration, in the interest of the public. The office should be conducted on business principles, and not for a division of its large revenues among political helpers. I am fighting a ring which is banded solidly against me. It is strong and powerful, but I unhesitatingly say that it does not stand for what is best in local politics. The man it is supporting has been in office for thirty years, and is drawing a salary of five thousand dollars. No injustice will be done to let him remain where he is.

Bagby Again Allows But Two Hits to the Crackers; Pelicans Hit Dent Fiercely

New Orleans, La., April 29.—(Special.)—Whatever the Pelicans might have had stored up against Elliott Dent, Atlanta pitcher, for deeds during the days gone by, was fully revenged this afternoon when the locals hit and slugged and hit and slugged again until they had piled up a total of twelve runs and sixteen hits off the tall right-hander from Georgia.

The Crackers got only one man across the plate.

It was just one hit and run after another all afternoon and so quickly did the locals get around the paths that despite the extraordinarily large score, the game was almost a record-breaker for speed, being played in less than an hour and a half.

And, while Dent was being knocked both ways from the middle by the Pelicans, the Crackers were held safe at nearly all times by Jeems Bagby, who pitched one fine game throughout, only three Crackers hit safe during the nine innings and two of these hits came in the same inning. The one run was scored by Roy Moran, who got a three-bagger and scored on Bisland's infield out in the fifth inning.

Speaking of three-baggers—there was a regular epidemic of them. The Pelicans secured six, three in one inning, and of these six, Tim Hendryx is credited with three. Tim was at bat five times, getting three triples. Harry Sylvester, Bob Higgins and Pitcher Bagby got the other three.

After Hendryx, Pitcher Bagby put in the heaviest day at bat, getting a triple and two singles in four times up, and scoring two runs by so doing. Hendryx during the afternoon scored five runs ahead of him and added one to this score by getting over the plate himself.

During the first four innings just twelve men faced Bagby, and in the sixth, eight and ninth only nine men were up.

In the fifth the vistors scored one run, as has been told, and in the seventh Bagby walked two men who, however, failed to score.

Waycross, Ga., April 29.—(Special.)—In the opening game of the Georgia State league season in Waycross today Gardner and Baker fought a thirteen-inning scoreless battle, darkness ending the game, without a Dothan player reaching third, and only one Waycross man getting to the hot corner. YELLOW JACKETS MEET BAPTISTS

Old College Rivals Clash on the Diamond at Grant Field Today and Saturday.

The next to the last college series to be played locally will start this afternoon, when Tech and Mercer line up in the first of two games, the other to be played Saturday. These games were originally scheduled to be played in Macon, but due to the inability of the Mercer authorities to secure grounds suitable, were transferred here.

Both Tech and Mercer are right in the run for the baseball supremacy of the state, and this series will have an important bearing on this. Both teams are in great shape for the struggle, and will start the game with their line-ups intact.

Mercer will use either Hunt or Stevens in the first game, using the one that does not pitch in Saturday's game. Hunt is an old-timer, well known locally, and is a pitcher extraordinary, while Stevens is a newcomer, but in the games he has worked in, has shown unusual promise. Coach Heisman will shoot Senter against the Baptists today, with Bryant working tomorrow. Morrison will catch both games.

The game is scheduled to start at 2:30, and an admission fee of 10 cents will be charged.

PREP GAMES

The prep games to be played this afternoon, are as follows:

Boys' High v. Tech High at Sleepy Hollow.

Donald Fraser v. G. M. A. at G. M. A.

Marist v. Peacock at Piedmont Park.

Memphis, Tenn., April 29.—(Special.)—Bruce Lee, manager of the Chicks, says, today planted more seed for 1915 harvesting when he sent three players to the Southern Atlantic league. Mahoney, a pitcher of Chester, Pa., and Enoch Sinault, a big right fielder were sent to the Jacksonville club. They take up their new job at Macon tomorrow. Roderick McDermott, an infielder of Holly Springs, Miss., was sent to Albany for tutoring under Frank Y. Manush.

Whitney Wins Decision; Was Fouled in the Tenth

By Carl Taylor.

Frank Whitney, the fighting carpenter, from Cedar Rapids, was awarded the decision over Eddie Hanlon last night at the end of their ten-round bout by Referee Jim Lynch. Hanlon was just about out in the middle of the last round, and but for a very vicious foul, Whitney would easily have knocked him out. Whitney could have claimed the decision on this ground, but he only called the referee's attention to it and proceeded with the fight, another tribute to the gameness of this sterling fighter.

The house was well filled, and the crowd was in sympathy with the decision. Hanlon put up the best article of boxing he has yet shown, but Whitney was too strong.

The fight started tame and throughout both fighters held on too much. Towards the end, both warmed up, and the crowd was brought to their feet several times by rousing blows. In the infighting, Whitney had the advantage.

The first four rounds were even, the fifth was Whitney's, ninth and tenth were Whitney's, and the eighth Hanlon's.

Kid Young and Battling Budd put up a rousing ten-round battle to a draw. Budd had a small shade over Young in three rounds, but Young's quick comeback won him a draw from Referee "Pussy" Woodruff. Both got in several good blows. While the referee's decision did not meet the entire approval of the audience, still it was a ten-cent and Young deserved a draw by his good comeback in the final rounds.

The card was opened by Greek Blondy and George More, two welters, and Blondy knocked More out in the sixth round. Up until the knockout blow was delivered, a straight solar plexus punch, More apparently had the advantage.

BOB BURMAN WINS BIG AUTO ROAD RACE

Oklahoma City, April 29.—Bob Burman today won the 200-mile free-for-all sweepstakes automobile road race. His time was 2 hours 58 minutes and 3-5 seconds. Dave Lewis was second and John Raimey third.

Burman averaged 67.8 miles per hour for the entire 200 miles. Lewis finished 4 minute 28 2-5 seconds after the winner.

Burman's skill on the turns gained him several seconds on each lap, and he took the lead from Lewis on the sixty-eighth lap, his victory being assured when Lewis was forced into the pit to replace a tire in the seventy-seventh lap, with six more to go.

One car hit a tree in the lap which was the only accident of the race. No one was hurt.

Every Man Read This

This treatment is said to have acquired a wonderful reputation throughout the East, owing to its peculiar propensity to fortify the nerve force and generate health and a consequent personal magnetism, so essential to the happiness of every normal human being. It is claimed to be a blessing to those who are physically impaired, gloomy, despondent, nervous or who have trembling of the limbs, dizziness, heart palpitation, cold hands and feet, insomnia, fear without cause, timidity in venturing and general inability to act rationally as others do. Also of vast benefit to writers, professional men, office workers and the victims of society's late hours and overindulgence in wine, liquors, etc.

By obtaining the treatment at some well stocked pharmacy, no one need know of another's trouble. While the treatment has been widely prescribed and dispensed heretofore by physicians and pharmacists, the grain tablets are now prepared with full directions for self-administration that it is wholly unnecessary to pay a physician for prescribing it. Just ask for three-grain Cadomene tablets, begin their use and soon all the joy of a healthy body, sound nerves and strength will be felt.

A bets B that he can pick three winners out of four. Two of his teams win, the other loses and the fourth ties. What makes no provision for a tie game. Who wins?
A. F. S.

On all ties bets are off.

A bets B that Albany wins baseball game, game ended in tie. The wager did not provide for tie. Who wins? P. B. S.

On all ties bets are off.

In the game between St. Louis and Detroit on April 20 Cobb scored a run and was credited with a stolen base. Please explain this. E. N. B.

Every time a player handles a ball he is given credit for an assist. You have had the pleasure of scoring a game where there were nine assists and one put-out to display. When a man is caught in a chase between bases every time a player throws the ball he gets credit for an assist.

With the score 2 to 2, a man on third, manager takes the pitcher out. Man on third scores and wins game. Which pitcher is counted the loser? F. N. B.

This is a rule over which there is considerable discussion. In some leagues they rule the first pitcher, in others the latter. I would rule the latter.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Athletics 3, Senators 1.

Washington, April 29.—Philadelphia won the third game of the series here today, 3 to 1. By bunching a hit and a sacrifice fly with an error in the eighth inning the visitors broke a 1-to-1 tie, and attained a lead Washington could not overcome. Washington scored on a double and a single in the third, but thereafter Pennock was invincible.

The game was won in the sixth when Crawford walked, stole second and came home on Veach's double.

Boston, April 29.—Outbatted eight hits to eleven, New York won an erratically-played game from Boston today, 6 to 4. Hartzell's triple in the fourth inning with three men on bases was the deciding factor. Boston lost a chance to win in the seventh when McNally, running for Ruth, was stopped by Hartzell and by Thomas, a coacher, and declared out for the latter's interference.

Speaker was responsible for an unusual play in the second, when, having singled, a fly off Mehaffe's bat, he purposely dropped the ball, threw it across the diamond to Nunamaker out and Wagner relayed the ball to Holtitzell, hitting McNale, who had not run out his hit.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Braves 13, Giants 8.

New York, April 29.—Boston defeated New York, 13 to 8, here today in a game that was started after an unusual complication had arisen over New York's attempt to play Benny Kauff, who pinched for the Giants from the Brooklyn Federals just before play was called.

Umpire Quigley at first declared the game forfeited to New York when Boston refused to play with Kauff, in New York's line-up. Meanwhile, Umpire Rigler had been in communication with President Tener, of the National league, and, according to a statement issued by Secretary Heydler, of the National league, reported back to Manager Dooin that he had received instructions to forfeit the game to Boston if New York persisted in playing Kauff. President Tener later had declared ineligible. The clubs then took the field after McGraw had called attention to the fact that Quigley previously had declared the game forfeited to New York. Kauff was not in the New York line-up when actual play began.

Under President Tener's ruling, as reported by Secretary Heydler, the game stands as played, a victory for Boston. The game was a see-saw affair, featured by long hits. Magee made two triples and a double. Murray hit a home run, a triple and single and scored four runs. Cather also scored four runs, hitting a homer and two singles. In the fifth inning Gowdy hit a home run with the bases full.

According to McGraw, Kauff never has signed a contract with the Brooklyn Federals. The player was a member of the Indianapolis Federals last season. He originally balked at his transfer to Brooklyn, it is said, but an agent for that club finally offered terms which Kauff accepted.

McGraw said that when Kauff came north with the club, Ward refused to accept the terms made by his agent, and repeatedly tried to sign Kauff to a Federal contract calling for the same salary which he played with Indianapolis.

Chicago, April 29.—President Gilmore tonight offered Benny Kauff to the New York Giants further than to say he fell like complimenting Tener and Gaffney on their stand in declining to permit Kauff to play.

Kauff, who was with Indianapolis last year, this season signed with the Brooklyn Federals, securing $7,500 advance money for signing a three-year contract, according to Gilmore. There was no ten-day clause in his contract.

PENN ELECTED HEAD OF FIFTH WARD CLUB. CANDIDATES SPEAK

J. H. Penn was last night elected president of the Fifth Ward Improvement club, which held one of its most important meetings of the year at the English avenue school. Other officers chosen were: First vice president, P. O. Bentley; second vice president, J. G. Flournoy, secretary, C. H. Owens, and assistant secretary, J. E. Parker.

Paul Jenkins, candidate for ordinary of Fulton county, was present by invitation, and addressed the club. Councilman C. D. Mason, of the tenth ward was present to speak in behalf of the candidacy of Thomas H. Jeffries, on whose ticket he is running.

Several other city and county politicians were present, among them being Hon. John Temple Graves, of the Taxpayers' Civic League of Economy, who urged immediate retrenchment in official extravagance, fees for county officials.

Hilda Chambers, a member of the board of education, discussed the educational situation in the fifth ward, assured the members of the club that work would begin shortly on the Howell Station school.

TEXTILE PROBLEMS EMPHASIZED BY WAR

Boston, April 29.—A business session and the reading of papers largely technical, completed the work of the annual convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers today. A paper by Arthur H. Culliver, of Connecticut, dealt with problems in the textile industry emphasized by the European war.

"It is very necessary," said Mr. Culliver, "for us to consider, with the utmost care, the changes in methods of doing European business that have been brought to our attention by the European conflict. In the manufacture of dyes it is useless for us to try to compete at once with a nation like that has made discoveries and experiments and has spared no expense in producing results from coal tar. We may be possible for us, in a number of years, to give them some competition."

Textile fabrics discovered in the caves of the pre-historic cliff dwellers of the southwest, were described in a paper by Professor Byron Cummings, of the University of Utah. "The results of their careful handwork," said Professor Cummings, "would do credit to our patient New England great-grandmothers."

COLLEGE BOY AND GIRL ARE SOUGHT BY POLICE

Miss Mamie McGee, of Athens, Has Mysteriously Disappeared.

Detective Captain C. E. Seagraves, of the Athens, Ga., police force, has appealed to Police Chief James L. Beavers to aid in a search for a pretty young school girl, a member of a prominent family of the Classic City, who mysteriously disappeared from her home last Tuesday morning.

Her name is Miss Mamie McGee, age 17. The young woman's mother came to Atlanta Thursday in search of her daughter, arriving on a late train to her home last night, after telling the Atlanta police that she believed her daughter had run away with a young student of the University of Georgia, who, she said, has also mysteriously disappeared from his college.

Captain Seagraves' telegram to Chief Beavers describes the missing girl as very tall and slender, and of a charming personality, with pretty blue eyes, and dark brown hair, and was dressed in a blue skirt. She wore a white waist and a black hat, with a red velvet band around it, and had in her possession a valuable gold bracelet, engraved.

Working under the idea that the young woman has run away with the university student to get married, the Atlanta police are searching the local hotels, believing that the two young people might have come to Atlanta on their honeymoon to see grand opera.

No trace had been found of them up to an early hour this morning.

WILL ASK FOR $15,000 FOR TENTH ST. SCHOOL

Julian V. Boehm, secretary of the special committee named by the trustees of the Tenth Street schools to appear before the finance committee of council and ask for $15,000 for two more rooms, has been officially notified that the committee will meet next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and hear the petition of the committee and all those interested.

The committee, according to Mr. Boehm, will be present to outline the necessity for the rooms, and will lay special stress on the fact that the Tenth Street school is forced, on account of lack of accommodations, to hold double sessions to care for the pupils.

FAIR AND CLOUDLESS, FORECAST FOR TODAY

The weather man still insists that the day will be fair and cloudless and just as warm as previously predicted, making today the record-smashing drought of this month. The entire northern, eastern and southern states report that the April of 1915 has been the driest in years, and although it has usually rested for its sudden showers and moist periods, Atlanta has gone with two days of rain in Atlanta during April, and they weren't enough to count. Wednesday night a good shower fell for an hour or so, and two weeks before there was a light shower that achieved little cooling effect upon the city. Up to date, there is no rain in sight.

AIDED GENERAL MORGAN TO GET OUT OF PRISON

Madisonville, Ky., April 29.—Captain L. D. Hockersmith, who is reported to have dug his way out of the Columbus, Ohio, penitentiary during the civil war, and to have liberated his commander, the confederate general, John H. Morgan, with whom he was imprisoned, died at his home here today. Morgan and a remnant of his command were captured near Pomeroy, Ohio, in July, 1863, during a raid through Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana.

Captain Hockersmith was 82 years old. He was widely known in the south.

LIKE THEIR LEADERS, THEY PLEAD GUILTY

New York, April 29.—Emulating the example of their leaders, Philip T. White and James F. Clinnin, who yesterday pleaded guilty to instigating the robbery of bank messengers of the Masury Paint company last June, three men accused of actually committing the robberies also pleaded guilty today. They were Robert J. Roberts, Benjamin Moore and Thomas W. Daily. They will be sentenced Wednesday.

White, general sales manager of the company, yesterday dramatically confessed his guilt in court, and his example was followed by Clinnin. White's wife. White maintained an expensive home in New Jersey and had not been suspected by his wife of participation in the robberies.

Closed steady.

New York, April 29.—Cotton was quiet today with prices easing off under scattered selling apparently inspired by rather a more favorable view of weather conditions south. Closed steady, 8 to 12 points net lower.

Opened barely steady on relatively easy cables, reports of showers or rain at the eastern belt, selling by houses with Liverpool connections and local liquidation. Reports that over an inch of rain had fallen in the Dallas section were not confirmed, however, and after showing net declines of about 10 to 6 points, the market steadied slightly on the eastern belt forecast for fair weather today and tomorrow and the prospect for unsettled or cloudy conditions in parts of the southwest.

Support also was encouraged by reports of a strengthening goods market and bullish acreage advices, but buying was far from aggressive, and the market closed quiet during the afternoon under New Orleans selling, renewed liquidation and a little pressure from local spots.

The closing prices were the lowest of the day. The selling here in New Orleans was accompanied by reports of freer spot offerings there and Liverpool reported a less active spot demand, while there were rumors around the city that some of the larger spot houses had been quiet sellers during the day. Detailed weather reports from Texas in general but light showers in the Montgomery, Atlanta and Savannah districts, while further precipitation of consequence was reported in the western belt.

WAR ORDERS BOOST MANY INDUSTRIALS

Though Trading Lighter, Stocks and Bonds Yielded None of Previous Day's Strength.

New York, April 29.—Circumstantial reports that additional war contracts had been awarded to American manufacturers contributed to today's active stock market. Equipment and industrial shares advanced from 2 to 6 points, Westinghouse Electric making a high record.

United States Steel was the pivot around which the list revolved on dealings aggregating about 20 per cent of the whole, advanced 1 7-8 points to within the smallest fraction of this year's best price, but fell back toward the close in the accompaniment of adverse trade rumors.

Although the volume of business was below that of recent active sessions today's movement was very broad, taking a hand almost every division of dealist.

Local transactions barely held their gains of the previous day. Declines of a point or more in steel and some other favorites provoked a similar irregularity at the close.

Total sales, 958,300 shares.

The local bond market yielded none of yesterday's strength, but trading was much lighter. New York City 4½ debenture sixes were higher and Wabash refunding fours rose over 5 points. Total sales, par value, aggregated $6,320,000.

United States bonds unchanged on call.

WHEAT DIPS LOWER; PROVISIONS VARIED

Price-Making Influences Mixed — Oats Depressed. On Advance Packers Quick to Realize.

Chicago, April 29.—Wheat prices averaged lower today, affected somewhat by lack of any important fresh export demand. Closed unsettled 5-8 off to 1-8 up compared with last night. Corn finished at 1-4 decline to a shade advance, oats 1-4@2-8 to 3-8@1-2 down and provisions varied from a setback of 2 1-2 to a rise of 15c.

Traders found wheat difficult to follow. Price making influences were more mixed than usual and were in no case of wheat of a character.

Corn see-sawed in much the same manner as wheat. Favorable weather for planting counted against the bulls, but speculative support developed on the break.

Oats were depressed by the outlook for heavy deliveries on May contracts.

Provisions advanced with hogs. On the bulge, though, packers were active in realizing, chiefly as to lard.

MAY SILK SALE

with silks worth, at retail, $30,000 to sell for about $18,500

THE may Silk Sale—original and exclusive with Rich's—is the biggest event of its kind in the south. It is not a mushroom sale—planned overnight with remnants and oddments—but a broadly-gauged merchandising event.

Despite the low prices, therefore, you will find in this sale only desirable silks.

We have done our best to show these silks—given over our entire window display to them. But at that we can only show four items—and we really have more than fifty. See them heaped high tomorrow on the tables. If you're fond of making comparisons and judging values, note particularly that we offer:

59c & 75c Silk Foulards at 33c

NOT remnants, please, nor odds and ends, but fifty full pieces in pin and polka dots, spray and floral patterns, two-tone color effects, etc. 23 and 26 inches wide. 33c.

ROOSEVELT POSES AS PANIC-STOPPER

Colonel Boasts to Jury in Libel Suit That He Safeguarded Business in 1907. Loeb Testifies.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 29.—Theodore Roosevelt was excused from the witness stand today in William Barnes' libel suit, after he had told his own story of how he ended the panic of 1907, and had identified a letter upon corrupt conditions in New York state, which, it was represented, was signed by Governor Charles S. Whitman, then he was district attorney of New York.

In this letter it was said that "the time was ripe to rid the state of the king of party control," which was mainly responsible for corruption. The allegation was also made that the men and policies responsible for such conditions were not confined to any one party.

Believed Parnes Was Meant.

The name of William Barnes did not appear in the epistle, but Colonel Roosevelt testified he believed the reference was to him.

In the letter Whitman declared that the men and policies responsible for such corruption were not confined to any one party, but the colonel said he believed Mr. Barnes was referred to.

William Loeb, Jr., once the colonel's private secretary, also was a witness for the state. Barnes had told him that he had an agreement with Charles F. Murphy, of Tammny Hall, not to interfere in the selection of a United States senator. That was in 1911, prior to the time James A. O'Gorman was chosen. It was while Mr. Loeb was on the stand that counsel for the former president made a futile attempt to get before the jury testimony regarding vice and gambling in Albany.

Colonel Discusses 1907 Panic.

Of the panic of 1907, the colonel told how Henry C. Frick and Judge E. H. Gary, representing the United States Steel corporation, had come to him in the white house, and told him that if the J. P. Morgan interests could take over the Tennessee Coal and Iron company before the exchange opened that morning the stock, much of which was held as collateral, immediately would become enhanced in value, and the business of the country, which was "trembling on a hair," would not be suspended. The colonel told how he took action in the matter and then notified the newspapers of what had been done.

"And," he said, "with pride, "the panic was stopped."

During the day, Colonel Roosevelt swore that he had not heard the names of many of the men who were said to have contributed large sums to his campaign fund in 1904, until they were read in court during cross-examination. The colonel also made explanatory statements about his appointment of judges and his relations with former United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, and about speeches he made in which the name of Mr. Barnes was mentioned. Asked whether there was any "invisible government" while he was governor or president, the colonel answered, "not the slightest particle."

George P. Agnew, former state senator, gave testimony concerning "strikes" in the senate upon race track legislation and the manner in which he said Senator Grattan defeated the bill after he had been advised by Mr. Barnes how to cast his deciding vote.

No Evidence Against Barnes.

Justice Andrews, in a statement made to counsel during arguments, and while the jury was out of the room, asserted that no evidence had been produced connecting Mr. Barnes with any "corrupt connivance," insofar as the municipal government of Albany was concerned. Then he added:

"Where the libel charges a man with being a thief, it is not enough to say simply that the charge is true, but one must set up in the answer the facts from which the inference is made.

"If the charge is that Mr. Barnes was corrupt in one way or another. You are bound not simply to say that the charges are true. You are bound to set forth the facts, which if true, would constitute justification; they have got to be set forth so that if the facts are true they would show corruption.

"That you have failed utterly to do with respect to the Albany Lincoln league and gambling conditions, but I am inclined to think you have done it with respect to the printing charges."

Doubt About Whitman Letter.

William M. Ivins, chief counsel for William Barnes, said late tonight he had telegraphed to Governor Whitman asking him to appear as a witness in rebuttal and testify regarding the authenticity of the letter read today to Governor Whitman's, and regarding other matters.

Counsel for Colonel Roosevelt said they had submitted the letter to persons who were familiar with the governor's signature, who had declared it to be his.

A letter nearly similar to the one introduced was in controversy in New York prior to the last election. There was some doubt at that time whether the letter had actually been written by them district attorney and he never admitted it. The letter produced today, however, was actually signed, the attorneys said, by Mr. Whitman.

AT THE THEATERS

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

There is an abundance of song, music, dramatics and spicy vaudeville variety on the bill at the Forsyth this week. Toby Claude, supported by her capable company in a miniature melange of song hits from the most successful recent musical productions, is the week's favorite. She is one of Broadway's most celebrated musical stars, having been featured in such successes as "A Chinese Honeymoon," "Fantana" and "The Belle of New York." Norman Hackett, the Atlanta dramatic favorite, is one of the bill's star features. He presents a stirring dramatic sketch, "Cinch," revolving him and the assistance of a brook. Lew Gillette, the "Lady From Delf," is a juggling marvel.

Photo-Dramas.

(At the Grand.)

A stunning program of two big picture features is the offering at the Grand theater for today and tomorrow. The first is "The Lily of Poverty Flat," the western drama based on the lovable story by the West most brilliant writer, Bret Harte. The leading role is portrayed by Beatrix Michelena, the star who is reputed to be the most beautiful actress in moving pictures. "Help Wanted" is the accompanying offering. It is based on the triumphant comedy-drama that is having such a sensational run in New York and in which Emma Bunting, the Atlanta favorite, is being starred.

BIG SALE OF BONDS FOR NEW YORK CENTRAL

New York, April 29.—Financiers and bankers were gratified today by the announcement that the sale of what was said to be the largest issue of corporate securities ever placed in the United States had been consummated yesterday. The proceeds of these bonds will be used to fund an equal amount of the company's now unfunded debt and in the acquisition of property

RELIEF FOR TEACHERS PLANNED BY ARMISTEAD

Will Ask City Council to Give Credit for Work Done Outside of Atlanta.

Alderman Jesse W. Armistead, chairman of the council school committee, and a member of the board of education, announced Thursday that he would introduce an ordinance in council Monday afternoon to give teachers from other cities credit for work they have done.

This decision was the result of the mayor's action in refusing to approve the pay roll of teachers of the system who were paid on a basis of work done on other city school systems.

Mayor Woodward rules that it is illegal to give credit to teachers for work done in school systems other than Atlanta. When the comptroller asked the mayor Wednesday to approve the payrolls he refused and instructed that the payrolls be returned to the board of education for revision.

PREVENTION VS. CURE

The main reason why corporations that have large lists of stockholders and float their paper on the open market have yearly audits by Certified Public Accountants is—

That the management and stockholders want to know definitely, not only what the business has produced, but that the statement is correct.

When trouble comes the accountant's services are first in demand.

Why not beforehand, as a prevention instead of a cure?
